THE SLUMP in employment should convince the feeble-minded that keeping out immigration does not guarantee steady work for everybody in the United States."

To guarantee steady work you need buyers for goods produced, and to increase the buying you must increase the purchasing population.

If this country had 50,000,000 more population of the right kind it would be 50 per cent better off in every way.

When there were only 4,000,000 people in the United States many were idle, many were poor, many were drunken, and only one mechanic in the whole country was able to earn as much as one dollar a day the year round.

THE GREATEST unemployment problem is much improved so far as it affects the deserving Wall Street brokers. For two days in succession the stock market has been cheerful. Prices "buoyant."

You may think it makes little difference whether a broker earns one thousand or two thousand dollars in a day.

But Wall Street is a barometer for prosperity. When the street is happy prosperity often follows.

WALL STREET'S cheerful mood came too late for Bart H. Manning, once vice president of the Union Trust Co. in Detroit.

Last Tuesday Manning wrote to an undertaker, including "Directions for finding my body." He was found in a swamp near the Detroit Country club, with a bullet near his heart, and soon died.

He is said to have lost $2,000,000 in stock speculation.

If men would buy stocks carefully selected, of sound value, as they buy real estate, within their means, every intelligent man today could lay the foundation of future independence.

But, in stocks or in real estate, if you gamble you are gone. Any one of ten million ghosts that float around the back door of the stock exchange at midnight could tell you that.

IT IS TIME for this country to get rid of its Sherman law fetish and allow great industrial, railroad and other concerns to make combinations in the interest of [illegible] railroads, lacking apparently [illegible] intelligence to meet automobile [illegible] bus and motor truck

TAX DUPLICATE TO TAKE HEAVY CUT NEXT YEAR

Abstract Shows Value of Property in County Is Reduced by $4,500,000.

LOWERED TO $85,622,400

Ten Per Cent Reduction Made by Auditor on Lands and Buildings One of Reasons.

A loss of approximately $4,500,000 will be suffered by the Marion county tax duplicate next year This is indicated in the completion of the personal property tax abstract in the office of County Auditor Earl E Thomas.

The 1930 duplicate shows valuations totaling $85,622,400 as compared to approximately $90,000,000 last year, he said.

Rates Completes

Thomas was unable to give definite figures showing where taxes would be reduced since such reductions are dependent on tax rates for the 45 political subdivisions in the county, which were taken to Columbus today by Thomas and George Geran, clerk of the county tax commission, for approval by the state tax commission.

Decreased valuations are shown in personal property, real estate and bank valuations, while public utility valuations show an increase. The greater part of the $4,500,000 decrease is due to the 10 per cent cut made by Thomas on valuations of land in the county and a like cut on buildings in the city, while $897,560 was lost in personal property valuations and $164,780 was dropped from valuatons on bank property. Public utility valuations total $14,977,200, an increase of $38,290 over last year.

The tax rates which Thomas and Geran took today to Columbus will, if approved, be used in making assessments for the Dec. 20 collection.

The tax duplicate of $85,622,400 is made up of an item of $29,294,930 for personal property, which includes banks, and $56,327,560 for real estate.

The personal property abstract presents numerous interesting figures on taxable properties. Livestock valuations for example, total $1,426,020, the figures including 4,605 horses, 13,412 cattle, 32,563 sheep, 30,054 hogs, 132,419 poultry and 416 mules.

Motor vehicles, the number of which is not available, are valued at $1,977,250, while household goods is listed at $1,395,320. Farm tools and machinery are valued at $396,640, and farm products at $114,870. Office furniture, almost half of which is listed by corporations, is listed at $262,530, and mining machinery at $81,060.

Stocks, Bonds Low

Pianos and other musical instruments are given a valuation of $256,340; merchandise in stores at $1,577,410, and money in banks and other depositories at $2,435,770.

While the latter item is large, that returned for money invested in bonds and stocks is exceedingly low, only $16,420 being so listed

Raw materials and manufactured articles are valued at $1,727,320, while tools used in manufacturing is given a valuation of $735,260. Credits are listed at $1,666,730.

While there are thousands of dogs in the county, their valuation is placed at only $3,390. The abstract also lists nothing in the space set aside for motor boats and other vessels.

A total of 10,269 returns were made, of which 10,084 were individual returns and the other 185 were corporations. All valuations were based on April 12 and the returns were filed before May 1.

FATHER BRINGS SUIT FOR DEATH OF SON

Brother of Dead Youth Is Defendant in $10,000 Damage Action Here.

The suit of a father against a son for damages as the result of a second son's death was being heard today in common pleas court.

Orville Shonk, the father, seeks $10,000 damages from Clay Shonk, the son, for the death last year of Russell Shonk. The father is administrator of his deceased son's estate.

The youth was killed when an automobile in which the sons were riding was struck by a passenger train on the Cincinnati division of the Erie railroad. The accident occurred on the Kenton avenue crossing.

Russell was instantly killed by the impact while Clay, the driver of the car, was uninjured.

The law firm of Donithen & Donithen represents the plaintiff and Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant is counsel for the defendant, assisted by Ralph Klapp of Columbus, an attorney for an insurance firm which is connected with the case.

SEEK TO SAVE JAP PREMIER

Operation Performed for Removal of Bullet Fired by Assassin.

By International News Service

LONDON, Nov. 14—An operation was performed today upon Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, seriously wounded by an assassin's bullet, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokyo.

The operation performed by physicians at the Imperial University hospital, was for removal of the bullet and the injured parts of the premier's intestines. The gravity of his condition necessitated postponement of the operation for many hours after the attack.

"We are still hopeful of his recovery," physicians said after the operation.

A heart-gripping story by Author of the $10,000 prize novel "Rebellion."

To Leave Here Sunday for Kansas City Meet

Forty-Three Marion County Boys, High School Instructors To Attend Convention of Young Farmers; Band To Be Feature Attraction.

FORTY-THREE happy boys will leave Union depot Sunday morning bound for Kansas City, Mo., to be one of the outstanding features of a national convention of Future Farmers of America. The boys, accompanied by state officials, several of the parents and the six vocational agriculture teachers in the county, go to the convention as the only Future Farmers of America band in the United States.

The band really numbers 45, including Oscar Kaelber of Pleasant township, director, whose efforts have been responsible for the formation of a musical unit from the 43 boys from eight schools over the county, and Harold Compton, supervisor of music in the county schools and the strutting drum major at the head of the band.

Band Plays Concerts

Since Aug. 15, this group, which is now a permanent part of the county F. F. A., has given 17 concerts over the county, endeavoring to clear its financial debt incurred when the new, snappy uniforms were purchased.

The national, state and local associations of the boys who represent the future of rural America, are financing the trip for the Marion county boys. Other state groups have become enthusiastic over Marion county's project and are anxiously awaiting the band's appearance in Kansas City, curious to see just what kind of music these boys from 13 to 18 years of age can make.

The Columbus Broadcasting Co. is giving one hour of its Monday night broadcast over to the Marion County F. F. A. band. The band will broadcast from 11 to 12 p. m.

ARMY AGREES

Military Academy May Meet Navy in Grid Game Dec. 13.

By The Associated Press

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 14—The Army today agreed to meet the Navy in a charity football game in New York, Dec. 13, for the benefit of the unemployed.

The Army decision was announced by Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the military academy, after a conference with his athletic council. It makes possible the first service game since 1927 when the Army won by a score of 14 to 9 at the Polo grounds.

MARION ENLISTS IN "PROSPERITY DRIVE"

"Buy Now" Slogan Sounded To Get Money Circulating and Wheels of Production Moving.

Beginning today, Marion is joining in a concerted nationwide movement to place business and industry back on a normal basis.

With expert economist generally agreeing that the country's chief need it to get its tremendous cash resources out of storage and in circulation and its supply of commodities moving from producer to consumer, "Buy Now" has been adopted as a prosperity slogan and is already getting substantial results in many communities where the drive is already under way.

All Marion business interests and civic organizations are enlisted in the effort to make this community's contribution to the nationwide prosperity project a success.

It is to be a 10-day campaign here, with merchants and business houses generally presenting exceptionally attractive offerings to customers in regard to both price and merchandise. But these 10 days are designated mainly as the beginning of a permanent and sustained forward movement. It is not believed to be only a splurge with a [illegible] afterward.

[illegible] "Buy Now" [illegible]od is planned to show the public that conditions for buying merchandise of all kinds are the most favorable in years from the buyer's standpoint.

But primarily, the purpose is to speed the wheels of industry and trade and keep the momentum increasing until production is again grinding out prosperity for everybody.

How this can be done through the process of a general buying movement is logically explained by students of industry and business. They declare that in a land where unemployment has become a serious problem there is a vast store of money—idle money. The nation's cash supply is as great as in periods of prosperity and industrial activity but it is stagnant, held back in many instances by a barricade of fear and lack of confidence.

Circulation Needed

Get this damned up prosperity lubricant circulating and there will be a flood of good times that will take in everybody, the buying advocates assert. They point to results already accomplished in many

TWO INDORSED FOR DEPUTIES

Democratic Committee Recommends Appointments to Sheriff-Elect.

Indorsement of Chester A. Cosgrove and Millard Baldwin, both of Marion, as deputies to Sheriff-elect Charles Fye was announced by the Democratic executive committee today through Dr. C. J. Altmaier, chairman.

Dr. Altmaier failed to confirm reports that T. H. Fiscfrock of Prospect has been indorsed by the committee as deputy to Treasurer-elect R. G. Smallwood.

Cosgrove two years ago was the Democratic nominee for sheriff but lost by a small margin to Sheriff John J. Francis in the Hoover landslide, while Baldwin was one of five unsuccessful Democratic candidates for the office in the August primary this year.

Indorsement of deputies by the county committee is said to be a new procedure in Marion county political circles. Definite selection of the men is in the power of Fye and Smallwood themselves before they assume their offices on Jan. 5 and Sept. 1, respectively.

Deputies in the recorder's office have not yet been announced by Charles A. Markert, who yesterday began serving the short term. His long term of two years begins Jan. 5. For the present, former Acting Recorder Cora McKeever and Mrs. Grace Zashman, clerk, have been retained.

Columbus Reduces Cost of Traffic Violations

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14—Parking overtime on downtown streets now costs $1 instead of $3, and not stopping at a through street costs $3 instead of $10.

The reduction was made yesterday, officials said, to pull into line with other cities and to reduce traffic cases in court, as it was believed violators would pay the lesser fines rather than go to court.

PROSPERITY PLAN OUTLINED BRIEFLY

The slogan: "Buy Now for Prosperity."

Get idle dollars in circulation.

Merchandise bought means work for men to make more merchandise. It starts the "prosperity circle."

Two reasons for "Buying Now." First — Prices are the lowest in 10 years or more. Second—Every purchase helps to speed up the wheels of production."

BUSY YULE SEASON SEEN

Most of Money Expected To Be Used for Holiday Shopping Here.

Six local banks and a building and loan company will play Santa Claus to Marionites early next month. Checks aggregating $141,500 in Christmas savings funds will be placed in the mail Dec. 10, officials of the banks and a building and loan company announced today.

Prospect of an active season of Christmas shopping were encouraging today, following the announcement that Christmas savings would exceed the $140,000 mark. It is estimated that a major portion of the Christmas savings money will be spent for Christmas gifts, although a part of it will be used for various other purposes.

Approximately 3,000 Marionites will share in the distribution of money Dec. 10, bank officials estimate. The number of depositors in Christmas funds this year is slightly below the number of depositors a year ago.

St. Nick is due to make a more extensive visit in Marion on the eve of Dec. 25 than was expected by many, as a result of the Christmas savings of Marionites.

Christmas savings this year of $141,500 are not on a level with the total of $164,000 amassed by Christmas savers last year, but will lend a substantial support to merchandise sales between now and Christmas.

In anticipation of a busy season, local merchants are busy stocking their shelves with gifts appropriate to the Yuletide. Presents for every member of the family will be shown in store windows within a few days.

The six banks and one building and loan company in which Marionites kept their Christmas savings accounts this year are: the Marion National bank, National City Bank & Trust Co., Citizens Building & Loan Co., Marion County bank, Marion Savings bank, Commercial Bank of Marion, and the Fahey Banking Co.

BULKLEY COMMITTEE FILES COST ACCOUNT

Campaign Expenses of Democratic Senator-Elect Listed at $20,942.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14—The "Bulkley for senator committee" Cleveland, which conducted the campaign for election of Senator-elect Robert J. Bulkley, Democrat, spent a total of $20,942.03 and has unpaid bills totaling $1,493.36, according to an expense statement filed with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown today by Thomas Coughlin, treasurer of the committee.

The Bulkley committee reported receipts of $20,942.93. The heaviest contributors to the Bulkley fund were E. A. Halsey, Cleveland, $2,500; Attorney Thomas A. Hogsett, Cleveland, $2,100; Democratic national senatorial committee $2,000; Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, $1,000. Among other contributors were James Bentley, Toledo, $600; H. S. Reynolds, Toledo, $500; former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, $200; J. L. Severance, Cleveland, $500; L. C. Hanna, Jr., Cleveland $250; former Senator Atlee Pomerene, Cleveland, $100; Herbert Boyd Swope, New York, $100. Contributions were listed from many states.

Among the largest expense items of the Bulkley, Cleveland committee, was a donation of $3,400 to the Bulkley Hamilton county committee which reported receipts of $6,221 and expenditures of $3,203. Mr. Bulkley reported his personal expense as $431 in a separate statement.

CHAPTER 1.

A Cinderella Bride.

AM not afraid I am not afraid Fanny kept repeating to herself as the way from Chicago to the Pennsylvania border. All journeys have to end and from its beginning she had dreaded the end of this one

Fanny had seen David but three times before she married him Mr Peters had introduced them- funny, irascible, little Mr Peters, who for 40 years had kept the neighborhood grocery store on Riley street. Mr. Peters had come around from behind his dingy counter to tell her about his dyspepsia when the little bell on the front door tinkled and David came in

David ostensibly was after cigarets When Mr Peters had served him he hung around and hung around, until Mr. Peters said abruptly, "I suppose you know David Frost, Miss Freiburg."

David had walked home with her It was the first time Fanny had ever had an uninterrupted tete-a-tete with a young man The admiration in his glance made her heart unaccountably leap and bound.

Yet she was used to open admiration in men's eyes. Her father told her it was because she was forward and bold He expected her to walk with downcast glance like girls in the old country, Germany.

When they came to her gate David asked her if he might come to see her. Fanny told him regretfully that she was sorry, awfully sorry, but her father did not permit her to have callers.

"He's not very well," Fanny explained hastily, "and it disturbs him to have me entertain or go about, so I never do either."

"But that's outrageous," protested David, heatedly. "How on earth does he expect you to have any friends—or get married?"

"I don't think he expects me to get married."

"Why, that's the most preposterous thing I ever heard of," cried David.

At dusk, a week later, when Fanny had been in the house all day, she snatched Lena's old shawl from a book in the back entry and stole out for a breath of air. It was a windy evening in late September.

She was pretending she was an autumn leaf, swirled this way and that by the breeze, when she turned a corner and ran smack into David. They walked twice around the block together, David insisting that he must see her again, Fanny protesting gently that it wasn't to be thought of.

"I don't believe you want to see me again If you wanted to you would"

Fanny weakened "Father is going to Scranton tomorrow afternoon- he won't be home until 9 o'clock."

They met at 5 in Sickles' woods, climbed the river bluff and watched the sun go down, and the moon, the harvest moon, come up. Later David built a fire and cooked bacon and chops at the end of a stick. They had to run to get home before 9, but for the last block their feet lagged

The moonlight filtering through the overhanging trees made a royal carpet of dappled silver and gray, the smooth boles of the maples were like straight polished columns of ebony, the grass a frosted mystic green.

Fanny threw back her head drew a deep breath "I love the night," she exulted.

"And I love you," said David simply, and choked. The laughter that was on Fanny's lips sprang back and made an ache in her throat. No one ever had loved her

They were there Fanny's arms about David's neck, when she looked up and dimly made out her father standing motionless by the fence. David had not seen

Her father did not move until David had turned to see her Then he stepped out of the shadows In dreadful ominous silence he pointed to the house with his cane. Outside the house the storm broke Fanny was certain the neighbors would hear her father's angry voice demanding an explanation, refusing to accept an explanation, denouncing, threatening, scorning Lena the housekeeper, cowered in a doorway, wringing her hands

Fanny's father could never have forced her to go away without a word to David if he had not drawn it out of Lena that David was engaged to Mary Morton David had kissed her, meaning to go back to Mary Morton

Fanny was the one who drove on with the packing all that night. It was weeks before her anger left her—her anger and her shame. After the shame had come a sort of numbing peace It was right that David should marry Mary Morton. She loved him, he was [illegible] Mary Morton had a great [illegible]

[illegible] your father had been [illegible] to have told us. He [illegible] stories of the women meant for [illegible] about [illegible] And [illegible] for [illegible] pay [illegible] at what [illegible] [illegible] I have [illegible] for you [illegible] come to the old [illegible] you be [illegible] a photograph of the young man to [illegible] a large uniform. I could [illegible] thick lips [illegible]

"You will be a great lady," her father mocked, "able to put your famous charm to some use at last"

Fanny's first memory was of crying passionately for her mother and Lena trying to comfort her. Then she remembered a ship she had been three years old when her father brought her to America Her father always made a mystery of his antecedents Yet it never occurred to Fanny to doubt him when he told her he would make her a great lady But she did not want to be a great lady If those round, thick lips came close, pressed her lips, she would suffocate

So she had written David nothing about herself, merely a little note with her Chicago address on the top, wishing him happiness with Miss Morton. On the third day the doorbell rang crazily. David had come.

Why had no one ever told her that a husband could still be a stranger? Why had the Promised Land suddenly retreated from them? Had that glorified moment when David first kissed her been a mirage of the senses? Perhaps she had been unfair to David, would Mary Morton have been the better wife for him? Had she saved herself at David's expense?

"Six months," her father had said, "I'll give you six months. No man would live with you longer No man least of all this young popinjay" That had been her dowry his blessing and final words, when she told him she was married to David.

That evening by her gate, when David had first kissed her, something wonderful had happened to them both. She could not put it into words -it was beyond words. It was as if she had been groping blindfolded and lonely all her life in a dimly lighted grove, searching for the one person who would lead her out into the sunshine.

A touch of David's lips and the bandage was off her eyes David was the one. David, David! It was more than recognition She trembled now with the glory of it the glory of her certainty! If David had stretched out his hand she would have gone with him then without question to the end of the world

No one was waiting to meet the bride and groom, but as David swung Fanny down the high steps to the station platform, Amelia, Fanny's new sister-in-law, burst excitedly through the door and gathered them both in an exuberant embrace Amelia seemed glad, actually glad to see her And Mr Heinz the cabman, welcomed Fanny like an old friend But as they got into the carriage there was an awkward moment

If you'll give me your trunk check I'll get it up in time for church," Mr. Heinz said genially

David explained that they had only hand luggage Amelia betrayed an expectation of a trunk, and then suppressed it What would David's mother think when she found her daughter-in-law had brought all her worldly possessions in one shabby suitcase? Four gingham house dresses three shirt waists a meager supply of cambric underwear, all bought for cash

But what did clothes matter? Fanny mused, her father had said. But it couldn't be true David loved her, she was not afraid.

CHAPTER 2

Found Wanting.

THE carriage turned from the street that led to David's home. In a few minutes Fanny would be face to face with her mother-in-law

Before Mrs Frost flooded over with welcome the radiant bride had time to [illegible] for [illegible] She could [illegible] though [illegible] everything [illegible] the [illegible] were [illegible] of [illegible] fair be

There was a [illegible] steps [illegible] for [illegible] waiting. They stood out

"Mr [illegible] Mrs [illegible] Peters," she said gaily

Fanny was suddenly woefully conscious of her hobby two-year-old hat and last year's coat Shrinking inwardly but standing gallantly she climbed the steps under the hostile gaze of her mother-in-law

Fanny dreaded the hostility even a Mrs Frost gazed her and formally bade her welcome "You must feel that my home is your home" Mrs Frost said and Fanny knew that she had been judged and found wanting "Oh but she must like me I will make her like me" Fanny assured herself.

But she felt at a loss with Mrs Frost If she had followed her first impulse she would have thrown herself on her mother-in-law's mercy and begged her to forgive her for marrying David, and please, please, for David's sake, to try and like her

When they were alone in their own room, David came over to her.

"You mustn't mind Mother's manner," he said nervously. "She's the best ever, and her bark's always worse than her bite. She's awfully old fashioned—has lived all her life by a lot of silly, stuffy old rules. Amelia and I never pay any attention- you mustn't."

The bell had rung twice before they came downstairs, hand in hand, guiltily like children late for school. Mrs Frost, unbending at the head of her table, helped herself to whatever was passed and ate nothing. Fanny nervously praised the food, praised the view from the dining room, said how good it was to be back at Cloughbairc, recounted little incidents that had seemed funny when they happened. The atmosphere was tense. Fanny realized only too well that it would be better to stop talking, but she could not She knew exactly how a little wave must feel that is doomed by a remorseless tide to go on forever beating against a granite cliff

"That was a merry little meal," said Amelia later to Leona, the colored cook.

"Yes, weren't it? I'm right put out at your mama acting so But it were Davey's fault. He had no business being so uppety with his mama about her not liking Mis' Fanny."

"David evidently has brought home a chip on his shoulder where his bride is concerned. He'd better get it off pretty quick if he doesn't want Mama to take a hate on Fanny. I'm going to tell him so as soon as I get him alone."

The Frosts had first learned of David's marriage the day before he brought his bride home A week earlier he had got leave at his uncle's bank and left in a great rush Then on Saturday had come his telegram.

Mrs. Frost, born Emma Brownbeck, was a strong-minded woman who prided herself on her self-control and practical common sense Of mixed Pennsylvania Dutch and Puritan descent, she had spent her life in the small eastern Pennsylvania city where she was born, and by instinct and training was extremely suspicious of new people or new ideas or customs. Left a widow early in life with limited means, traditions of family importance and two children, she centered her ambitions on her children -especially David, the child of her heart

Mrs Frost's first reaction to the news of her son's marriage was a white-hot fury against the Freiburgs, followed by a cold determination to have the [illegible] as much warp and woof of him as the Brownbecks were warp and woof of that section of eastern Pennsylvania.

Mrs Frost worshiped her son, and it never entered her head that he would want to live elsewhere than with her

Naturally, therefore, she laid the blame entirely at Fanny's door, when David, about two months after his marriage told his mother that he had rented a house and meant to go to housekeeping

"But it's ridiculous for you to make definite plans until you know what your salary will be," she told David

"Uncle Judd can't give me less than $25 a week -that's the usual raise after a year We can manage beautifully on that"

"May I ask who is going to do the housework"

"Fanny of course"

"Fanny can not walk through a room without leaving it at sixes and sevens"

David ignored this and went on to explain

"You've been awfully good to us. No one could appreciate that more than Fanny and I But do you realize that we haven't had a single evening alone in the last three weeks"

Realizing that had done most to reconcile his mother to Davids marriage was that it seemed to insure his early return home Amelia she knew, would probably marry and leave her, for years, she had been haunted by the dread of a lonely old age

Through the last weeks Mrs Frost insensibly had been softening toward her daughter-in-law Now she told herself bitterly that as Fanny's amiability had been exerted on her for one purpose Fanny wanted to be accepted by David's family and their friends

Mrs Frost was determined to have David and his wife with her as long as [illegible] want[illegible] any[illegible] [illegible] don't [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

RADIO NEWS AND PROGRAMS

Georgia Tech Coach in Grid Talk Over CBS

WITH football holding the undisputed center of the national sports stage, increasing interest attaches to the interviews of noted gridiron authorities by Christy Walsh, widely known sports writer and manager, which are broadcast each Friday from 10:30 to 10:45 p. m. over the Columbia network.

In these interviews, sponsored by the William Wrigley Jr. Co., the expert interviewed by Walsh predicts the probable outcome of the more important games of the following day and discusses other phases of the sport of general interest to football fans.

This Friday, on the eve of the Georgia Tech-Penn game in Philadelphia, Christy Walsh will interview W. A. Alexander, coach of the southern team and president of the Football Coaches Association of America. The following Friday, Nov. 21, Tad Jones of Yale, a member of the Intercollegiate Rules Committee, will be interviewed in New York as a preliminary to the Yale-Harvard game next day.

"Old Nassau," a song of Princeton university, will be sung by the quartet during the program College Memories to be broadcast from the NBC Chicago Studios Friday at 7:15 p. m.

"Your Eyes Have Told Me So," sung by Lois Bennett, soprano, and Mary Hopple, contralto, will be one of the featured numbers on the program to be broadcast by the Quakers Friday at 10 p. m.

LILLIAN ROTH

Miss Roth, star in Broadway musical shows and sound pictures, will appear as guest artist with Nat Brusiloff and his orchestra on the Nestle program Friday at 8 p. m.

The Spanish suite, "La Feria" (The Fair), will be played by the Black and Gold Room Orchestra during the broadcast over the WJZ network Friday at 6:20 p. m.

Chopin's only light-hearted Ballade, the third, played by Marguerite Morgan, pianist, will be one of the features of Le Morgan Trio's recital to be broadcast over the WJZ network Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Famous Dutch Author To Talk From Holland

HENDRICK Willem Van Loon, famous author, editor, lecturer and war correspondent, will speak to America from his study in Amsterdam, Holland, during an international broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting network and WABC, as part of The Radio Follies scheduled Friday at 10 p. m.

Van Loon's topic is "Diamonds" and at this time he will speak in the first sponsored international radio broadcast ever to be made from Holland.

Van Loon's address, which will be heard at the midway point of the regular Radio Follies Musical program, will be broadcast by short wave radio telephony to this country where powerful short wave receivers located at strategic points along the coast will intercept and relay it to Columbia headquarters in New York City for distribution over the nationwide network through an intricate wire system.

Alonzo Stagg, for 40 years a football coach, will speak through station WLW Friday at 6:30 p. m. in a forecast of the game his University of Chicago team will play the next day with the University of Illinois, and in a discussion of college football.

Selections from Rudolf Friml's operetta "Wildflower" presented by the ensemble will form the centerpiece of the Cities Service Concert to be broadcast over the WEAF network Friday at 8 p. m.

A 16-piece orchestra under the direction of Jules Herbuveaux and Tom, Dick and Harry, a vocal trio, will select from current musical shows and "talkies" when presenting the Brownbilt Footlites from the NBC Chicago Studios Friday at 7:45 p. m.

Opening with the old favorite, Strauss' "Wine, Woman and Song," listeners will spend "a night out with father" as the first part of the Old Company's Program which will be broadcast over the WEAF network Friday at 7:30 p. m.

Delibes, Godard and Ganne are listed among the French composers whose works comprise the program of Slumber Music to be heard through the WJZ network Friday at 11 p. m.

Ted Husing, Columbia's star sports announcer, will be at the Polo Grounds, New York, Saturday to broadcast a play-by-play description of the Fordham-St. Mary's gridiron engagement. This intersectional game between the undefeated Rams and the Saints replaces the Yale-Princeton battle on the Columbia schedule.

A well-balanced program of popular, semi-classical and classical music will be presented by an ensemble which includes Josef Koestner's 30-piece orchestra, and a mixed chorus of 20 voices, during the broadcast of the Armour Program from NBC's Chicago Studios Friday at 9:30 p. m.

College football songs from the "Big Ten" and colleges of the East will be played by Del Lampe's Eversharp Orchestra from the NBC Chicago Studios Friday at 9:30 p. m.

HAIL! HAIL! THE LADIES OF THE HOUSE

MRS. RUTH BAKER PRATT.

Election day brought reversal of political fortune to many who had for years been notable figures in the legislation of the nation. When the next house meets, even though Democrats and Republicans are almost sitting in an even balance, it will boast of feminine leaders of political thought and endeavor who are yearly growing in representation of feminine legislators in affairs of the nation. They are Ruth Pratt, New York; Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts; Florence P. Kahn, Calif.; Ruth Bryan Owen, Florida; Otis Wingo, Arkansas, and Mrs. Mary T. Norton, of New Jersey.

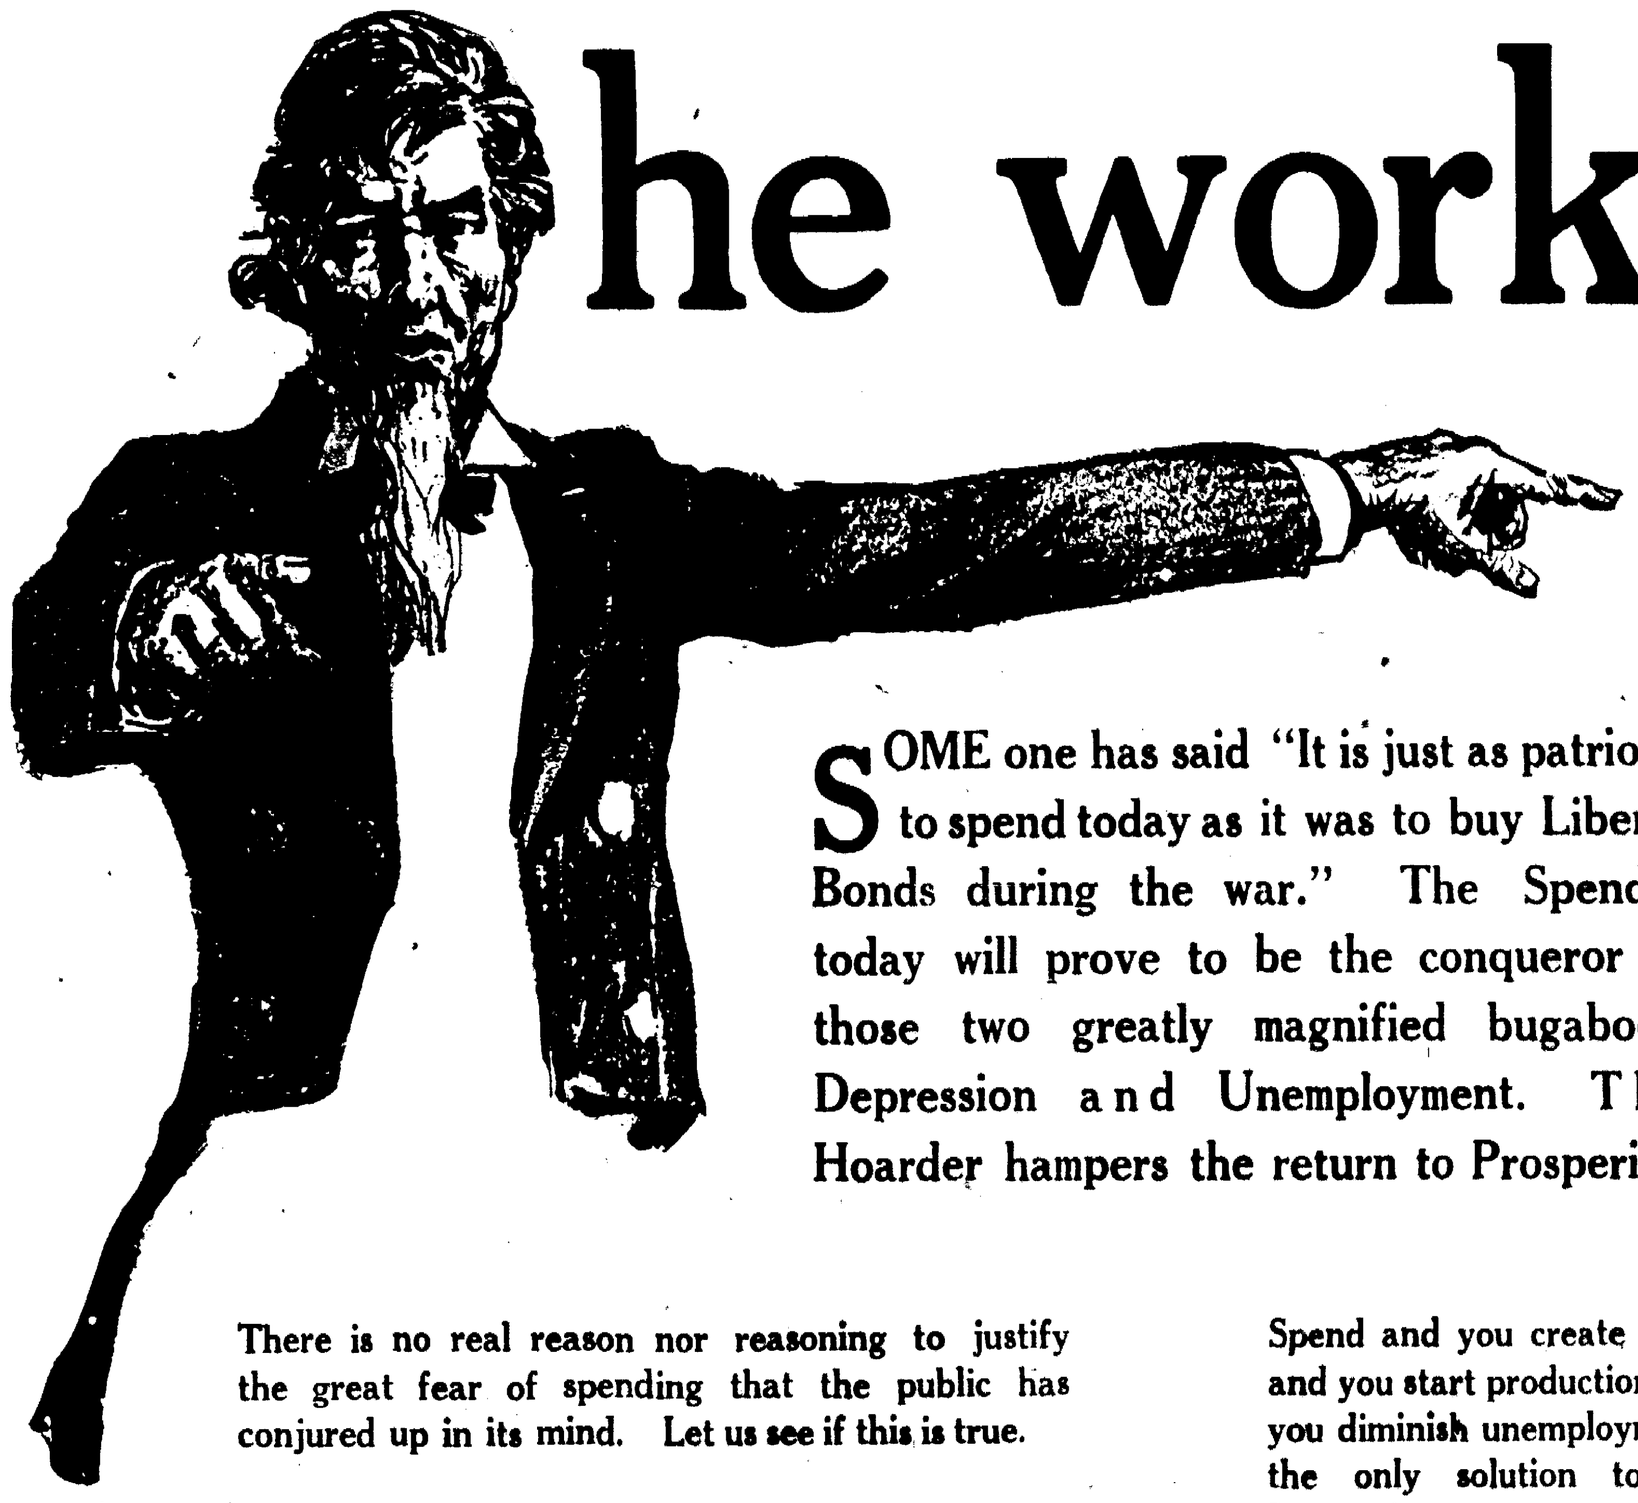
YOU BUY— he works!



SOME one has said "It is just as patriotic to spend today as it was to buy Liberty Bonds during the war." The Spender today will prove to be the conqueror of those two greatly magnified bugaboos, Depression and Unemployment. The Hoarder hampers the return to Prosperity.

There is no real reason nor reasoning to justify the great fear of spending that the public has conjured up in its mind. Let us see if this is true.

Depression is due to lack of business. When the public stops buying, demand ceases and when demand ceases production halts and when production halts unemployment remains stagnant. So depression is a direct and definite result of the lack of spending.

The public has the means to buy for only a small percentage are actually unemployed. Let us see if this is true. Of America's 120 million population there are approximately 100 million able to work. There is today about 3½ million unemployed. The average unemployment during normal, prosperous times is 2 million so that only 1½ million are out of work today over the normal times or about 1½% of the working population.

The rest of the people can buy if they will. They have the means, the need, the desire if they will only banish fear.

Spend and you create demand . . . create demand and you start production . . . start production and you diminish unemployment. Money in circulation is the only solution to national and individual Prosperity.

This is the first of a series of four advertisements, inserted by the business and civic organizations of Marion, in support of the national "Buy Now" campaign. Special buying inducements in every Marion store from November 15th to November 25th.

Ohio Boy is Healthiest

"MY little son, Billy, had a bad case of measles," says Mrs. V. Sherman, 7027 Zoeter Ave., Cleveland. "He was having a hard time until I heard of California Fig Syrup and got him some. The next few doses regulated his bowels, brightened him up, marvelously; even seemed to reduce his fever a great deal.

"I have since used Fig Syrup with Billy during colds or upsets. It has been a wonderful help to him; has assisted in making him the strong boy you see—perhaps the healthiest one in our neighborhood."

For more than fifty years, mothers have praised California Fig Syrup. Leading physicians advise its use with bilious, headachy, constipated children, or to keep the bowels open during colds or children's diseases. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. It tones and strengthens weakened bowels; helps make children robust.

Look for the name California when buying. That marks the genuine.

"But, Mr. Perle," gasped Hallie "I—can't follow you Do you mean that because my mother was married to my father this—this girl isn't——"

"Conaldine married Harriet's Ellesmore. The child of the woman Muir has therefore no legal claim to his fortune whatever"

"Please, Mr. Perle I want to make it quite clear, at once, that I shouldn't dream of taking all the money from this girl who was brought up to consider it hers by right. We had the same father we'll share his fortune

'Share it'" Mr. Perle's voice shook "No that is too generous Miss Conaldine There is no legal liability you must understand that"

"There is a moral obligation persisted Hallie She put a hand to her head—how extraordinarily dense the man was not to see her acute physical distress!

"If you are determined," he said slowly "I cannot object When I have told you that legally Muir's daughter cannot claim a penny—must even refund what she has in good faith spent—then I have done my duty as lawyer. Then—" he turned to her suddenly "I can only urge you to give me directions here and now"

"Directions?"

"I have been one of the trustees of the fortune Nevertheless I cannot act save upon your written instructions . . A letter would do written now, empowering me to pay to the young lady we know as Rose Canaldine the sum of $25,000 a year"

Hallie took his pen and paper and wrote the letter.

When she had gone Perle released the other Rose from an inner room where she had waited

"The lady who has just left me has made the most generous arrangement imaginable She has instructed me to pay you an allowance of $25,000 a year"

Color streaked Rose's face

"She's going shares with me! Then, you didn't tell her?"

"I told her that you and she had the same father"

Rose muttered.

"For my—ah—act of chivalry, you will, I think be inclined to concede me something"

"How much?"

"Shall we say—$20,000 a year for 12 years?"

Rose dropped her bag

"But—but that only leaves me with $5,000 a year!"

"And the hospitality of my home"

"Five thousand a year and free board and lodging for 12 years while you collect $240,000

She came closer to him "I believe you've taken that much already sneaked it out of the funds and this is your second shot at getting it back. I believe——"

You will stop that noise remarked Mr. Perle

Rose stopped it "She stumbled out

Mr Perle closed the door and unlocked one of the drawers of his desk He removed the words inscribed upon a sheet of rough edged paper

I see there's a lot of my oil burners being sold for high prices if you want to see justice done there's my kids in the Sarah Sidley Home her mother's dead and buried but you'll find the kid easy enough if you ask for the one that was in the Lettington tram crash with her mother. It's a risk me writing to you but I'd like that kid to have something she was a pretty kid with blue eyes though I don't put her above—"

Mr Perle put his hand into the drawer again and found the second half of the letter

"In my little Rose that lives with my wife that was Miss Ellesmore Mr Perle it may be that Miss Ellesmore won't touch my money thinking it was not clean money but clean money it is and if she won't have it it will come in for the child Rose Perhaps you don't know but Margot's kid is known as Alice Evans in that Home they was living under that name after the trouble How I come to find out these things is neither here nor there but, sir you must look out for my money going to my wife and daughter please"

Mr. Perle took both sheets of notepaper to the hearth and burned them . . Then he went into the office of his partner Kevern

Mr Kevern held out a copy of the morning's paper

"Yes, yes" Mr Perle soothed him "All very sad and somewhat inconvenient I have however effected a very agreeable little bargain by which the Conaldine fortune — ah — consumes its own smoke."

"There was $240,000" croaked Mr. Kevern. "If we're short of $240,000 and we are short of it . ."

"My dear Kevern, the matter has arranged itself. I will not weary you with details but, believe me, we have nothing about which to disturb ourselves. And we may, after tomorrow, have even less The Conaldine heiress, in my opinion, will almost certainly be executed for having instigated the murder of her husband"

To Be Continued.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mr. Veritzen Hints Lavish Presents

PHILIP VERITZEN'S remark concerning the mistletoe was banal and commonplace enough to have been made by Sam Ticer in a facetious mood. But in his voice there was a fatuous note which made me look around involuntarily to see if Dicky were within hearing, and I said to myself grimly that Lillian's facetious prophecy was coming true

I ignored the remark completely and gave him a conventional welcoming smile.

"How do you do?" Then I added a perfunctory inquiry about the weather.

"I haven't been outdoors today, I said, and regretted the statement as his quick rejoinder came

"Oh, but that is a crime on this glorious winter day. I have never seen a finer one. Can you not come for a short drive now? Surely these young people can carry on without you for an hour!"

I was miserably conscious that Junior, Roderick, Henry and William were casting furtive, wondering glances at the magnificent visitor, for my employer was resplendent in a costly fur coat, and that Mary, Noel and Katherine undoubtedly were noticing the enthusiasm with which he was inviting his invitation to drive The knowledge changed courtesy to curtness in my reply

Subtle Implication

"Impossible," I said sharply. "I cannot leave until everything is finished and cleared away."

He opened his lips to protest closed them again, as Otto, who evidently had followed him in from the car, appeared in the doorway, a florist's box under one arm, and bearing in his hands as if it were a very new baby an exquisite silver and glass container with magnificent roses of holly red, the roses arranged in it with such striking effect that I knew the master of stage and decorative detail must himself have overseen their placing.

Mr. Veritzen turned, and, taking the beautiful thing from Otto, held it up for my inspection.

"This isn't your Christmas present," he said, stressing the first word. "It's just a wish for a merry Christmas which I couldn't resist bringing you today. If you'll tell me where you'd like it placed I'll put it there. It's too heavy for you, Otto, open the box!"

In his tone there was the subtle implication that I was too fragile and precious to lift anything heavy With a curious mingling of annoyance at his manner and the genuine delight which is always mine at the sight of flowers, I took the exquisite container firmly from him.

"I shall set it here for the present," I said, placing it upon one of the low built-in bookcases which lined two sides of the living room "It is so lovely that I shall have to spend some time deciding just where it will look best Oh, how beautiful!"

Apprehension

The exclamation was involuntary, brought out by the magnificently holly red roses displayed in the box Otto had opened Rarely have I seen such blossoms not fully opened, but which would be in perfect bloom upon the morrow It was an immense box, and there were roses enough in it, judiciously arranged with green, to make a bower of my living room.

As it was to be a children's Christmas I had not planned much expenditure for flowers, realizing how large were our other bills I had ordered a few modest red roses for the dining room mantelpiece and some holly red carnations for the living room But now I could visualize Mr Veritzen's roses in living room and dining room, and the carnations in halls and library, and I felt a gratified little thrill as I anticipated the loveliness of the flowers against the Christmas greens.

But my pleasure was distinctly threaded with apprehension as to Dicky's reaction to this third tribute of flowers to me I had managed to keep him surprisingly good-natured through the orchid centrepiece of Mr Veritzen's dinner at The Sign of the Scimitar and the lavishness of the flowers he had provided for Mary's party But there had been signs that his patience was wearing threadbare, and I dreaded the moment when his eyes should light upon these flowers

Prophetic of Complications

In the back of my mind also there was apprehension about the emphasis Mr. Veritzen had placed upon the first word when he said "This isn't your Christmas present" Was it possible that he meant to send me something else, something with his usual lavishness which would arouse Dicky's jealous anger?

I could only comfort myself with the thought that Dicky was not in the house, or near it I had remembered when I had looked involuntarily around for him that he had taken Harry and Lillian to The Larches so that we might have the use of both cars during the day, and that he no doubt would stay there for a while and enjoy the antics of the college boys and school girls.

Within an effort I pulled myself together and warmly thanked Mr. Veritzen for the flowers But I think he sensed the withdrawal in my mind he is wonderfully keen—and he took a rather hasty leave, so much so in fact that his whole was unwontedly curt, as I said in parting

Don't forget that we expect you tomorrow

He turned his eyes full upon me and in their depths I saw the beginning of a flame

"Do you think I could forget that?" he asked softly as he turned away And I went back to the hanging of the greens with the feeling that my Christmas festivities were going to be complicated by the presence among the trimmings of high explosive

MRS MARY A. DARST DIES AT HOME HERE

Funeral Services for Marion Woman Will Be Held Monday.

Mrs. Mary A. Darst 73 died today at 5:20 a. m. at her home at 506 North Prospect street after a year's illness of complications. Mrs. Darst was a member of Epworth M. E. church and of Circle No. 14 of the Ladies' Aid society.

She was born May 27, 1857, in Tiffin, to Michael and Sarah Foust Hoke, both natives of New Castle, Pa. Her marriage to Frank Darst took place Sept. 23, 1877.

Mrs. Darst is survived by the husband, three children, Mrs. Ada Augenstein of Waldo, Mrs. Ruth Burnette and Miss Hazel Darst of 506 North Prospect street. Three brothers are living. They are William H. Hoke of Waldo, John H. Hoke of Bucyrus and Edward D. Hoke of Attica.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the home, with Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church in charge. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

competition, are in a bad way in spite of greatly increased rates.

And the government, slowly and thinking in 1869, not in 1930, will not permit railroads and industries to get rid of useless overhead expense by mergers, consolidation and wasteful competition by combination.

An extraordinary feature of our foolishness is the fact that a Texas Ranger can operate in the United States on an economic monopoly basis forbidden in the case of an American enterprise.

IT PAYS to improve your city if the improving is done in even a moderately honest and efficient way.

After a long delay, New York and New Jersey decided to build a vehicle tunnel under the Hudson river.

In three years 31,000,000 automobiles have used the tunnel, paying $15,500,000 in tolls.

The tunnel cost $54,000,000, and is taking in $6,000,000 a year. In 10 years it will pay for itself.

If cities were run by competent business men instead of being run, as is usual, by grafting and ignorant politicians, taxes would be cut down 50 per cent and more. Prosperity and values would increase gigantically.

THE BRITISH are interested in the amount of money this country spends for drink, and think it may have something to do with our prosperity slump.

Prohibition authorities believe that the United States is now spending two billion eight hundred and forty-eight million dollars a year for drink, whereas in 1913 the country spent only one billion eight hundred and seventeen millions.

That is an increase of a thousand million dollars a year under prohibition.

And worse than this spending of money is the fact that the two billions eight hundred and forty-eight millions are spent for poisonous whisky, and the money goes to build up a gigantic crime organization.

BRITAIN has a race problem that will interest the South.

The British Kenya colony in East Africa contains 2,500 British white settlers, and 1,000 times as many, 2,500,000 black inhabitants, also British subjects.

The 2,500 whites demand the right to run the country and, of course, by hook or by crook, they will have that right.

Britain's labor government talks moral platitudes, but to let the 2,500,000 blacks rule would drive out the 2,500 whites and there would be nobody to hire the blacks and help them to escape from savagery.

sections of the country as evidence of this.

Here is the way it works. Industry the first to benefit is the retailer and he after reducing his stock of merchandise must order more from the manufacturer. Then the manufacturer, finding orders coming in, increases operations to supply the demand and that puts idle men to work. Completing the prosperity circle the newly employed workers become buyers and the need for production of more goods grows and expands until all branches of commerce are caught in the whirl of activity.

The campaign comes at an exceptionally advantageous time for buying merchandise of all classes. Prices are lower than at any time in the last 10 years or more and the public is certain to benefit from supplying its needs at this time. This includes not only everything essential to living, such as food, clothing and furniture, but material required for home building and repairs and other projects. The "Buy Now" slogan applies to everything that will add to the flow of money into productive channels.

Gadsen Gives Figures

In Philadelphia, where the campaign has had one of its most successful demonstrations, Philip H. Gadsen, an outstanding business and industrial leader convincingly pointed the possibilities of this movement in these words:

"Do you know that if every wage earner in America would 'buy now' to the extent of 15 cents a day it would release enough capital to employ 1,000,000 unemployed at $6.25 a day?

"A mere 15 cents a day would put $2,184,000,000 back into circulation per year.

"The difference between prosperity and hard times in this country is $1 per week per capita."

The motion of attorneys for Lucia Viggiano for a new trial in the damage case brought against the General Exchange Insurance Corp. and the Marion Buick Co. was overruled by common pleas court yesterday. A verdict for the defendant was returned by a jury in the court on Oct. 17.

The plaintiff sought payment of insurance on a Buick machine which was allegedly stolen but which the defense claimed was confiscated in Michigan because of alleged liquor-running activities of the plaintiff's son.

CITY TO GET RETURN FROM POOR RELIEF

Applicants for Coal and Grocery Orders Put To Work Removing Leaves.

Persons receiving aid from the city poor relief department will be enabled to return value received for coal and grocery orders under terms of a plan worked out at city hall this morning.

Several men out of employment and depending on the city were put to work collecting leaves by order of Mayor L. Don Jones today.

Annual collection of leaves by the service department was suspended by order of the mayor a few days ago as an economy move. Under the new plan, a good share of the leaves will be gathered with practically no added expense to the city.

The plan is particularly effective since occasional showers this week have made it impossible for Marionites to collect and burn leaves in backyards, as the mayor requested early this week.

Wet leaves, ground to small bits by traffic, are being washed into storm water sewers, endangering the sewer system, Mayor Jones pointed out. Collection of leaves will partially relieve this situation.

The plan of giving city charges physically able a chance to make their own way rather than charity charges may be used in keeping the city tidy and clean, without any additional expense, Mayor Jones said.

Campaign Costs Candidate $5; Polls High Vote

Coroner-elect Kenneth D. Smith not only polled the highest vote of any candidate in Marion county at last week's election, but he also came through his campaign a debt ahead financially.

Dr. Smith received $6 worth of advertising blotters from his father, John W. Smith, as a campaign contribution. He spent $5 as his assessments to the Democratic county executive committee, his expense account filed today with the board of elections, shows.

Passes 9,000 Mark

The new coroner was the only candidate who went beyond the 9,000 total in votes received. He was given 9,117 votes to lead all candidates, both county and state. The figure exceeded by 750 that given to George White, gubernatorial candidate.

The Democratic executive committee came out of the campaign with money in its treasury too, according to its expense account. The committee received $1,572 from candidates' assessments and from other contributions and its expenses totaled only $1,261.17, leaving a balance of $111.33. The expenditures included rental, printing, advertising, clerical work and other items.

Fye Spends $29

Dr. John W. Bull, unsuccessful Republican candidate for coroner, spent $35; Frank L. Spicer, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for commissioner, spent $130.52, while Charles Fye, winning Democratic candidate for sheriff, expended only $29. Bert J. Shelton, unsuccessful Republican candidate for treasurer, spent $171.54.

Dr. Smith is the only candidate to date who has listed any campaign contributions.

Today is the last day for candidates to file their expense accounts according to election board officials.

Grand Jury To Report In Galion Bank Case Late Today

TO DETERMINE CASEY'S FATE

District Attorney To Ask Indictments After Probe of Fund Shortage.

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14—Warren James E. Casey former president of the Citizens National bank at Galion O will be forced to stand trial in federal district court here on charges resulting from the discovery of an alleged shortage of more than $225,000 in the bank's funds was expected to be known here late today.

The November federal grand jury was expected to decide in its report scheduled to be handed down today whether the government's charges against Casey are sufficient to hold him for trial.

An indictment charging Casey with falsification of records and misappropriation of funds was drawn up for presentation to the grand jury by assistant United States District Attorney William McDermott, who is handling the case for the government.

It is not believed likely that the government at this time is seeking to involve any other persons in connection with the alleged deficit at the bank.

The department of justice's investigation of the records of the Citizens National bank has not yet been completed according to McDermott. Prior to the grand jury meeting however, the attorney stated he had sufficient evidence against Casey to obtain an indictment.

Casey entered a plea of not guilty to the charges of misappropriation of funds and falsification of records when he was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner H. K. Cochrane last July. He was released under bond of $12,500.

NO ARMISTICE YET

Bread War Continues After Week of Low Prices.

An armistice in the bread war which local housewives are enjoying this week has not yet been "signed" by local bakeries which are involved in the controversy, it was reported today.

The war began last week when several small firms cut prices, and the larger bakeries followed by slicing their prices by two cents a loaf.

Ten-cent bread has been selling for seven and eight cents in retail stores since the war began. Bakers claim they are selling to the retailer for less than cost, but they intimated the cut would last until the small firms bring their prices back to normal.

Troops Guard Foreign Residents of Peru

By International News Service

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 14—Detachments of Peruvian cavalry, infantry and machine gun companies are reported marching now in the Cerro de Pasco copper mining district, the Andes scene of a strike called by Communist leaders on foreign residents. Two Americans were slain and 12 others killed or wounded.

Martial law also was being established at Cerro, a hot bed of unrest in the outskirts of the Cerro de Pasco region, where 15 Americans, including a number of women, were reported in danger.

COLD SNAP STRIKES PACIFIC NORTHWEST

First Snow of Year Falls in Oregon, Utah; Tourist Cars Stalled.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14—Snow, wind and rain combined today to give California and the Pacific northwest sharp warning of winter's approach.

The beginning of the weather disturbance yesterday brought with it reports of damage to crops and small water craft.

At Monterey a fishing boat was torn from its moorings and two barges loaded with sardines were swamped.

Portland, Ore., experienced the first snow of the season, as did Salt Lake City, Utah.

In Montana a snowstorm swept down from the north, driving temperatures to below freezing. Fifty automobiles, belonging chiefly to tourists, were snowbound near Great Falls. There was a possibility drifting snow would impound the cars until next spring. Ten women occupants of the stalled automobiles walked six miles through the drifts to shelter. A group of twelve men sought refuge in a cabin.

NEW MODELS OF CAR TO BE SHOWN HERE

The new models have a number improvements over previous models, and prices are from $20 to $40 cheaper. All models have an additional two inches on wheelbase and the hood is slightly longer.

Fatal Dynamite Blast Cause of Investigation

By The Associated Press

IRONTON, O., Nov. 14—Investigation was being made today by Prosecutor Lee D. Andrews into the killing of one pupil and the injury of six others when a dynamite charge sent a huge tree stump hurtling through the roof of Kelly's school yesterday.

Investigating officials talked with some of the injured children and with workers on the Blackford highway five miles north of here, where the stump was dynamited.

Dean, 12-year-old on of Mr. and Mrs. William Dean, died from a crushed skull suffered when the stump dropped through the roof into the class room.

Trouble Develops for Hoover's "Conqueror"

By International News Service

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Nov. 14—Newt Butler, the fellow who tricked Herbert Hoover when they were boys must face a court summons for having a slot machine in his soft drink parlor.

It was rumored that school boys were patronizing the place so sheriff Wright went to Newt's establishment, gave Butler a court summons and confiscated the machine. The raid likewise revealed two slot machines in the Hoover hotel which is just across the street.

MARION TO HAVE PLENTY OF WATER

Whysall Reports Wells Only 20 Inches Lower Than Last Winter.

While other Ohio communities are reporting water shortages due to lack of heavy rains in recent months, Marion's supply is abundant and residents need not fear a shortage, George Whysall, manager of the Marion Water Co., said today.

"The level of our wells is only 20 inches lower than last winter. In past years it has sunk 25 feet, but the drouth of last summer hasn't made any appreciable decrease in the level this year," Whysall said.

Whysall is unable to account for the abundance of water here, but such a condition does exist he said.

CLASS AT SERVICES

Rev. R. L. Bush Preaches at Calvary Church Revival.

"Just as surely as there is a heaven there is a hell," Rev. R. L. Bush declared in his evangelistic sermon last night at Calvary Evangelical church. Thirty-five members of the Mizpah Bible class attended the services in a body. At the close of the services two responded to the altar call.

Continuing his sermon, Rev. Bush said, "There are those who will say hell is an environment or condition, but it is a place. Hell was not made for man, it was made for the devil and his angels, but when man disobeyed God and broke the law of God there was no other place for him to go because Heaven was not made for disobedient sinners.

"It is time people are aroused. We have allowed this lethargy to settle down upon us. We have become half asleep and don't believe hell is quite as bad as we thought it was. And when we go there, we go with our mental and physical powers, especially our memory. We can remember everything we have passed through."

Services will be held tonight, preceded by a period of music.

May Finish Hearing on Daugherty Plea Today

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Nov. 14—Testimony in the hearing on the plea of Mal S. Daugherty for abatement of 15 indictments returned against him as an outgrowth of the failure of the Ohio State Savings bank, was expected to be completed today.

Daugherty, former president of the bank, is charged with mishandling funds.

Nine members of the grand jury which voted the indictments were called yesterday to deny Daugherty's assertions that his constitutional rights were violated when he was asked to testify and that two special investigators were admitted to the jury's quarters.

Even if Daugherty wins his present plea, he still faces two additional indictments voted two days ago.

RESIDENTS FLEE IN FEAR OF LANDSLIDES

Whole District Near Lyons, France, Threatened with Disaster.

By The Associated Press

LYONS, France, Nov. 14—Fear of further landslides led today to evacuation of a wide area about the section where yesterday upward of 100 persons were buried as they slept when their houses collapsed about them.

Foundations of the entire district are believed to have been undermined by recent extended rains and the Antiquaille hospital and even the famous old cathedral of St. Jean itself are threatened. Reinforcing of the weakened area is said to be impracticable since the undermining appears to be too widespread.

Firemen, police and volunteers at dawn resumed their excavation of the ruins of the 10 or 12 houses which were caught in the landslides for the bodies of those who were buried beneath the tons of masonry. Only five bodies thus far have been recovered. Of 15 persons taken alive from the debris several are seriously injured and probably will not live.

Estimates on the life loss range from 50 to 100, with the possibility that the real total never will be known. So hazardous is the work of excavation that it may be days before many of the bodies are reached.

St. Jean square today had the appearance of a camp, with long rows of army trucks, ambulances and field kitchens arranged to aid the excavation crews.

Engineers mounting Fourvieres hill this morning found crevasses there widening at an alarming rate. New cracks were discovered also in the ground above the big hospital, which appeared to be in danger of imminent collapse.

Legion Head Orders Investigation of Tear Gas Bombing.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14—Tear gas bombing by world war veterans of a St. Clairsville grocery store which remained open during Armistice day celebrations will be investigated by the Ohio American Legion.

In announcing the investigation last night, State Commander John A. Elden said "the men certainly acted without authority from the state legion department and reports indicate their action was without capacity as legion members."

Former State Commander Dudley A. White will make the investigation.

OLNEY SCHOOL HAS RECORD FOR MONTH

Attendance During October Is 98.7 Per Cent Perfect, Report Shows.

Olney Avenue school led the public schools in percentage of attendance in the month of October a monthly report issued from the offices of Supt George A Bowman shows The Olney Avenue school has 98.7 per cent attendance during that time

The per cent of attendance over the city dropped a small fraction last month under the mark for September Tardiness increased from 198 cases in September to 143 in October

There was a drop also in the number of pupils perfect in attendance In the preceding month there were 4,652 boys and girls who were in school every day and were not tardy Last month 4,185 reached this goal

Twenty-seven pupils withdrew from school last month, either with doctor's certificates or working certificates In September there were only three withdrawals The number of home visits by the teachers increased seven last month, but the number of visitors to the schools decreased 75

The per cent of attendance in the schools of the city last month was as follows.

Olney, 98.7; Greenwood, 98.4; Harding 97; State, 97; Pearl, 96.8; Forest Lawn, 96.8; Central, 96.7; Mark 96.5 Oak 96 Lincoln, 95.9; Fields 95.6, Oakland 95 N Main, 94.9 Silver 94.7 Vernon 94.5; Glenwood, 92.5.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Friday and it is gone. When I woke up this morning and reached out to put my arms around Jubilee he wasn't there and I knew I had rejected one of the best pals I ever had. A dog is like a boy. He can't take it for granted without getting a lot of sore places. I bet the other dog has got more than Jubilee has. I was afraid he might be weak from his fight and far off of his nose so I got on my britches and everything and went downstairs with him in my arms. But I had just got the kitchen door partly open when a voice said "What are you up to now? Don't you know you can't bring that dog in the house? Take him right out again!" And there was Aunt and instead of having on her nightgown she had on a pair of pants and a coat and I was so surprised I let go of Jubilee and he ran out the door and I was half way down the walk before Aunt could get to the door and it was a storm at sea. Aunt stood a long time on the front porch and I guess she was talking to herself but I couldn't hear what she was saying. I was afraid she might catch cold standing out there in the draft from the door so I went back in the front room and sat down on the sofa and pretended I was reading a book. Aunt came in and she looked at me like a cat looks at a mouse and I said "What's the matter?" and she gave another sniff and went out of the room and up to the other room and soon I heard grandfather who was very much surprised to see what the matter was. He went over to Aunt's room and she walked the whole length of him getting past him and to her room and he got up saying mean things about women and then there was my father and he said "What's going on here?" and before I could tell him my side of it there was my aunt with a blanket around her and she began to tell him that I was bringing my dirty dog in the house when she caught me at it, and then my grandfather said that wasn't any reason for knocking him down and walking on him. Then my father said "I have noticed Nancy, (which I my aunt) that when you let Thomas Aristides alone nothing happens and—for gosh sake where'd you get the pajamas?" and he pulled the blanket off of her and she stood there looking like a wet rabbit. Then my grandfather began to laugh and he said "Thomas Aristides is a dog and he can't help it if he was born a hound after a storm at sea and I heard a song about a fellow that had a dog and he and his dog were washed ashore in a rainstorm and if she would be a sport she would let down and let her walk on him again. And he shook his father a wet footprint on his nightshirt over his stomach and he said it was a good thing that it happened to have that garment on and my father laughed and laughed and I grabbed the hind pan and went out.

Mr. and Aunt came out to breakfast and no one said anything about me bringing Jubilee in. I am going to shape my ants new clothes and play circus. The Lost Bag of Tripe broke a school window. We were all real sorry for him.

For Saturday, Nov. 15

A FAIRLY favorable state of affairs may be expected from the prevailing lunar transits, but the movement will probably be in a smooth running of things in mediocre grooves. Employment and finances may show some benefits, growth or advancement but a peculiar or restless state of mind may have a tendency to negative these benefices.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of fair conditions, with employment thriving favorably and with the finances showing some increase or small expansion. But these benefist may not be appreciated by a peculiar or erratic state of mind, which will lean to the occult or mysterious.

A child born on this day may have an unusual mental outlook, leaning to the occult or the unusual. It may have a fair success in employment and reach a small competence in life.

New York City Man To Speak at Church

Frank Bell, C. S. B., of New York City will be in Marion Tuesday night to lecture at the First Church of Christ Scientist Church, street and Mt. Vernon avenue. The lecture will begin at 8:15.

Mr. Bell will support his lecture with an interesting explanation of the practical utility of the law which, he says, is constantly operating for the benefit of mankind.

PLANS FOR MEEKER FARM MEETING MADE

Institute Sessions To Be Held on Nov. 20 and 21.

Special To The Star

Nov. 14—Plans have been made for a series of short courses in agriculture, garden and home economics at Meeker Nov. 20 and 21. Emphasis is to be given under the auspices of the business farmers of the community.

The meetings will be of more than an educational nature, important problems pertaining to farm and home. Speakers will include L. A. Weaver, Melville Johnson and Mr. Hallett. Mr. Hawkins is a "dirt farmer," who has had years of a thorough training in agriculture at both the University of New Hampshire and Ohio State college. He is a practical farmer and for years has owned and managed a large farm in Illinois. Mr. Hallett of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois and Mr. Weaver of Ohio State Normal University has had charge of the experimental work on the 11-acre farm and hogs on the Normal university demonstration farm for six years.

Mrs. Randlett is thoroughly experienced with the home and school problems of rural life.

Will Rhoads is the president of the institute.

GOLDEN SUN COFFEE

GOLDEN SUN COFFEE has a tremendous appeal to men. In some cities GOLDEN SUN COFFEE outsells all other coffee brands. And you hear them say that GOLDEN SUN COFFEE is a "a man's coffee." There is something in that, too.

The fact is that GOLDEN SUN COFFEE is made of select, sun ripened berries. These coffee berries are sun ripened, just as the best fruits, the best nuts and the best berries must be sun ripened. Slowly. Tedded. Sun cured. It gives a goodness to coffee berries you couldn't possibly get in any other way.

GOLDEN SUN COFFEE comes from the mountains in tropical America. They're ripened in the sunny upland slopes. Waste moisture is slowly eliminated. But the rich, essential oils remain.

After being blended and roasted these sun ripened berries make GOLDEN SUN COFFEE a marvelous drink, fragrant, delicious, stimulating.

Join in the million joys of GOLDEN SUN COFFEE. Order today for breakfast tomorrow. Read the dividend coupon in every GOLDEN SUN COFFEE can. It saves you money. And remember all Independent Grocery Stores endorse GOLDEN SUN COFFEE. Try it just once.

TWO N. C. O. GAMES ON SATURDAY SKE

HARDING TO FINISH LEAGUE COMPETITION

Shelby To Visit Presidents on Fairground Field; Galion Meets Bucyrus.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

ACTION should be the password Saturday in football games in which N. C. O. teams figure. Three games on tap all of which should fairly bristle with thrills and hard football. Shelby will clash with Harding on the Fairground field sod; Bucyrus stages its annual battle with Galion on Lane field in Bucyrus and Mansfield takes on a non-league foe in Mansfield the person of Toledo Woodward Tech. Incidentally Mansfield has placed itself in a good position to take the first setback of the current season. Toledo Woodward has one of the toughest teams it has had for several years while Mansfield apparently does not measure up to its 1929 standard.

The two games in which N. C. O. teams will put on the entire show promise to be hard fought with the final outcome in doubt. The Galion-Bucyrus fray may be termed a "natural" if there ever was one. If it wasn't for the fact that Galion has a habit of going through a season in good fashion until it meets Bucyrus we would pick the Orangemen to win the game handily. However this, coupled with the fact that Bucyrus has shown a great improvement as the season progressed makes the game fairly even. Galion should win the game by a slim margin.

Harding-Shelby A Toss-up

What will happen in the Harding-Shelby game is a matter of conjecture. The only possible way that one could decide what kind of a score will result would be by guesswork. Both teams have had disastrous seasons, neither having won a league encounter. Both teams have at times shown flashes of form but neither have been consistently strong enough to do any damage. Both will be fighting to keep from finishing the season in the cellar so anything may happen.

If Harding plays the same kind of football it did when Mansfield was deadlocked six-six in the season's upset the Presidents will probably come out on top. However, should the Bohyer coached team let down even a little they will find themselves at the bottom of the ladder for 12 months. There is a slight mathematical chance for them to lose Saturday and still gain a tie for last place, but such is not probable. The Shelby game is the final league contest for Marion.

Same Lineup To Start

Harding is expected to start the same lineup that took the field against Mansfield. Bush will direct the team and bear the brunt of the backfield attack. He will do all of the kicking and probably most of the passing. Bob Keller, sorrel-top speedster, will be at one of the wingbacks with Morgan occupying the other wing post. Don Lindsey will be at the quarterback position but will not do any signal calling.

With the exception of Erle Williams, pivot man, the forward will will probably be the same. Williams has been out of practice for several days and Guthrie may get the call to start the game Saturday. Guthrie will probably take care of the center job nearly as well as Williams but the extra weight of the latter will be a big help in the middle of the line.

Other linemen will include Sloan and Alspach, ends, Smith and Clay tackles, Eckenbarger and Jevas, guards.

Singer To Defend Title Against Tony Canzoneri

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Al Singer's first defense of his lightweight championship brings him up against rugged little Tony Canzoneri in Madison Square garden tonight in a 15-round bout.

Singer, who won the title by knocking out Sammy Mandell in a single round here last summer, is a favorite at odds of 2 to 1 or more.

PROSPECTS FAIR FOR NET SEASON; KENTON FIRST ON SCHEDULE

Opening N. C. O. Game Carded with Mansfield on Jan. 2 in Marion.

STARTING with Kenton High providing the opposition on Dec. 12 Harding High's cagers this year will play 14 games, ending the season with a league game with Galion on Feb. 27. This schedule does not include those games which may be played in the late season tournaments.

Harding coaches will have exactly 14 practice days in which to whip a team into shape for the opening encounter if the present program of practice is adhered to. Coach Dewey Bohyer announced recently that Harding would start cage activities immediately following the close of the grid season with Springfield on Nov. 22.

Prospects for a championship team in the local school are not exceptionally bright although the school should produce a quintet capable of winning better than a majority of its games.

Several members of the squad of last season are expected to form the backbone of the Harding team this year. Warren Merkle, Junior Clay, Dick Morgan, Bob Bush and Bob Smith are some of the members of the 1929 team who will again be fighting for posts on the cage outfit.

Harding will open the N. C. O. league season with Mansfield at Harding. This game will be played on Jan. 2. The league season will close against Galion at Galion on Feb. 27.

The complete Harding schedule and the N. C. O. schedule follows:

TRADITIONAL GAMES ON EASTERN SKED

Fifty-Fourth Yale-Princeton Clash Tops Card; Harvard-Holy Cross Next.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—The eastern football slate for Saturday offers a double-barreled program of inter-sectional and traditional games.

In point of tradition and color the fifty-fourth meeting between Yale and Princeton at Princeton yields to none. They have been football foes since 1873 but seldom before has a Princeton eleven been so decided an under dog.

Harvard battles Holy Cross in its last encounter before the Yale fray and will need to be at full strength. Cornell and Dartmouth meet in another standout game. Dartmouth has not been beaten. Colgate meets Syracuse, Brown faces Columbia and Lehigh and Rutgers clash in another two of games that bring together old foes.

New York university and Georgetown have met only twice before but their contest has developed into one of the most closely contested games on the season's slate. Washington & Jefferson may be pitted in some quality before the Panthers battle and Lafayette fools none too easy about Temple.

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

BEFORE picking the probable winning college football teams for this Saturday an egotistical impulse demands that I remind you of the fact that of 15 probable winners named last week 13 won, one lost and one game was tied. All of which means exactly nothing as far as the selections this week are concerned. Here they are:

Pittsburgh to beat Ohio State; Ohio U to beat Muskingum; Wesleyan to beat Denison (with the second team) Miami to beat Oberlin; Heidelberg to beat Akron; Northwestern to beat Wisconsin; Michigan to beat Minnesota; Illinois to beat Chicago; Purdue to beat Butler; Notre Dame to beat Drake; Brown to beat Columbia; Yale to beat Princeton; Southern Methodist to beat Navy; Fordham to beat St. Marys; Vanderbilt to beat Tennessee, and Army to beat Kentucky Wesleyan.

For games in the N. C. O., Toledo Woodward will beat Mansfield, (non-league); and Galion will beat Bucyrus. No winner will be picked for the Harding-Shelby game—at least not today.

Unbeaten Teams in Gridiron Spotlight

Football fans will watch with a lot of interest Saturday the outcome of the battle between Heidelberg and Akron University and also the game between Muskingum and Ohio University. None of the four have suffered a reverse this season and are probably the four best teams in the state of Ohio, barring of course, Ohio State. Heidelberg will be forced to enter the fray with Akron minus the services of Vokaty, line-smashing fullback and one of the leading scorers in the state. This will be a big help for Akron but the Students Princes figure to be strong enough to take the Zippers into camp any way. It should be a bitterly contested game.

The Bobcats will also be facing the sternest opposition of the season thus far in Bill Lange's Muskies. Neither team has been defeated, but both have been tied. It is our guess that when the two games are over the Muskies and Zippers will have entered the numberless ranks of those who have been beaten, while Ohio U. and Heidelberg will remain in the realm of the top-notchers.

A Real Help To Any Team

For nearly two months all the sports writers of the country have been heralding the accomplishments of those individuals who regularly take their positions with the first string eleven when the referee blows the starting whistle for the weekly grid contests. The lowly scrubs and second stringers do not come in for any of the glory but get all of the knocks. They contribute no small part to the making of any team regardless of the publicity given them.

Harding has a good example of this kind of football player. Bob Reid, a senior, member of the Harding squad ever since he entered the high school, a conscientious worker and hard fighter is the one to whom we refer. Reid has probably played less minutes than there are in a single full game but he has stuck with the team in spite of his inability to gain a place with the first string lineup. Where others of the local high school have balked and quit when the going got tough or they didn't make the team, he kept plugging away. Next Saturday Harding will play the last game of the year and also of Reid's scholastic career. It is doubtful if he will get to play more than a few minutes at the most. He may not get in at all. It's our bet though, that whatever happens Reid will be with the team from start to finish—pulling for the best. Would that Harding had more students like him.

NO NIGHT GAMES

Don't belittle luck. It always plays an important part.

11 OHIO COLLEGES TO CONCLUDE GRID SEASON SATURDAY

Only Five of Number Expected To Win; Muskies Meet Bobcats.

BY LATHROP MACK
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14—Eleven Ohio colleges conclude their football campaigns this week-end while the others will have only a week or ten days to go until they are through.

Only five of the 11 expect to win, but all still shoot the works to win their final games and they will save nothing to use next year.

Ashland meets Ohio State's reserves at Ashland. Capital, playing at Hiram is another team which should win and complete its season with only one defeat, like Ashland, although both have been tied. Bowling Green should defeat Detroit city college in its last game, Findlay should win from Bluffton and cinch the Northwest conference championship, while Kent is a favorite over Defiance and Wilmington expects to defeat Hanover in Indiana.

It will also be the final game for Hiram and Defiance, both of whom have had disappointing seasons. Hiram and Bluffton will try to complete their seasons with one victory by winning Saturday. Marietta, playing its final against Kenyon college, has won only two games while Oberlin, meeting Miami in its last battle has done no better.

Muskingum, however, with one of the best teams in the state, undefeated to date although tied by Wooster, seems doomed to lose in its last game. The Muskies meet Ohio university, also undefeated about to repeat as champions of the Buckeye conference.

The Bluffton-Findlay and Wilmington-Hanover games are scheduled for today. So was the Ohio Northern-Otterbein game at Westerville with Northern's cripples granted small chance against the team which tied Ashland last week.

Heidelberg and Akron, the only teams in the state neither defeated nor tied, clash at Akron with the Student Princes favorites if Otto Vokaty can play but the game is a toss-up if he is incapacitated with his bad leg.

Only one Buckeye conference game is scheduled and Ohio Wesleyan should have no trouble winning it from Denison, at Delaware. The Bishops in that case will be playing Ohio university for the title next week. Cincinnati plays Wittenberg, a former member of the group, in Cincinnati and is doomed to lose but by not great margin probably.

Miami should beat Oberlin although despoiled by injuries of three regular backs.

Three Ohio conference battles, in addition to the Heidelberg-Akron affair will attract attention. Wooster's fast-coming team meets Mount Union, playing its third game in eight days, and the task will probably prove too much for the Mounts. Xavier ought to give Western Reserve its seventh straight defeat as against no victories. Case should have no difficulty with Baldwin-Wallace at Berea.

Dayton and John Carroll meet in Cleveland to decide the Catholic college championship of Ohio. Dayton is favored having defeated Xavier, but Carroll is tough and will not yield with ease.

The Marion Baking Co. has a large cake on display at Bradley's Drug store. Main street celebration is the cause of all this.—Adv.

Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach," on the market for a baseball team, is finding the going tough because he doesn't want a second division outfit. He says the fans will support a winner only.

WILDCATS-WOLVERINES PICK TO COMPLETE SEASON IN T

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—No matter what happens on Western conference gridirons tomorrow, the Big Ten football championship situation will be pretty well settled by nightfall.

Northwestern and Michigan are on the verge of winning—or tying for—the 1930 title, with Purdue, the defending champion, looming up in the background. Northwestern closes its conference season tomorrow, meeting Wisconsin at Evanston in the annual homecoming game with a capacity crowd of nearly 49,000 assured.

If the Wildcats wallop the Badgers, while Michigan should triumph over Minnesota, the race will end in a tie, as the Wolverines have only Chicago to play a week hence. Nobody doubts Michigan's ability to conquer the Maroons who have not won a major test this season.

Northwestern will take the field without Pug Rentner, forward passing star, with his shoulder playing a Minnesota two weeks ago. Northern is favored to beat

Minnesota, looming up last obstacle in Michigan the title, or at least a is preparing for an upset to upset the Wolverines. Coach Harry Kipke has that the thundering herd north may do the unexp

STOCKS RALLY AFTER DECLINE

Leaders Turn Higher After Losing Few Points in Early Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Early profit-taking on the three-day rally was easily absorbed in the stock market today and prices turned higher after losing one to two points under the realizing. American Teelphone, U. S. Steel and American Can were leaders in the renewed advance.

There was temporary group heaviness in the amusement, steel and railway shares, but the declines were quickly erased. Coppers firmed in response to continued favorable developments in the price situation. General Electric was sluggish.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

Case No. 11168

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Butter prices were apparently at the bottom of a price pit into which they have been falling during the week, following loss of another cent today. Quotations now range between 40 and 43 cents a pound for butter.

Production conditions have been aided by the common use of butter substitutes to force retail butter prices down. The cheaper substitutes have gained in popularity, and butter producers are finding it necessary to cut prices to hold their own on the market.

Cocoanuts from Florida were new on the produce market at 10 and 12 cents each today.

FOREIGN SLUMP AFFECTS PRICES

Wheat Lower Following Downturn in Quotations at Liverpool.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 14—By downturns in Liverpool quotations and by word that Argentine cargoes were being diverted to that port wheat prices here underwent early setbacks today. There were also predictions that world shipments of wheat this week would prove heavy owing to large clearances from Black Sea ports. Starting ⅞@2 off, Chicago wheat values rallied a little, but then dropped lower than before. Corn started ⅜@1⅛ down, and subsequently held near to the initial range.

Big buying developed in December deliveries of wheat here, and simultaneously there was heavy selling of May. As a consequence, the spread between December and May prices narrowed to less than 3c, compared with 6c recently. The market as a whole, however, tended downward with indications pointing to continued slow European demand for wheat from North America. Besides a new trans-Atlantic obstacle to business was noticed that the Dutch government has proposed compulsory admixture of Holland grown wheat with all imported grades. Adding impetus at times to the downward course of wheat prices were advices at hand telling of uncertainties resulting from Kansas cooperative wheat organizations engaging in wheat dealings similar to those of the Canadian growers' pool. Serious financial problems were reported as having resulted from some of the Kansas cooperative bodies that have wheat which has been carried for more than a year. Storage charges alone on this wheat were said to amount to as much as 20 cents a bushel. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat price downturns.

More Thought and Less Money

For the past year a good many people have had to economize who never before had to think of the high cost of living.

In the course of these last lean months they have found that the cost of living need not be high in order to make living attractive.

By using more thought and less money, economies have been achieved without the sacrifice of comfort or charm. Uhler-Phillips merchandise has helped, and is helping, in this program.

From the four corners of the earth have come wide assortments of good choice, dependable quality merchandise. Just the things which are certain to appeal to you. You'll find better values, day in and day out and lower prices—but the quality remains unimpaired. For while prices are down - the quality is just as high and just as dependable as ever.

As a result, people who have had to economize are getting more financial satisfaction out of their Uhler-Phillips' dealings. They are becoming pleasantly aware that—

Marion County Highways Now Free of Detours

... first time in months, ... state highways are ... according to the ... detour bulletin re... by the Marion Auto ...

... ing of the new por... Harding highway east ... asked the removal of ... a series of detours ... caused inconvenience ... during the summer ... months.

... idges are being constructed in the county but run-arounds are provided. One of the bridges is on the Waldo-Bucyrus road north of Waldo and another is located on the Delaware county line on the Prospect-Delaware road. A third is being erected near Brush Ridge on the Marion-Upper Sandusky road, but traffic is maintained since the bridge is on a new cutoff and therefore does not hinder traffic on the present road.

The detour bulletin shows the entire state highway system to be in the best shape since the spring building projects were begun. Red marks, which are printed on the map where projects are under way, are becoming fewer and fewer in recent weeks.

Motorists who plan to see Ohio college football games Saturday will benefit from the removal of the detours, since they will encounter none in driving to the principal contests.

Ohio State will engage in its final home game of the season Saturday at Columbus with the University of Pittsburgh furnishing the opposition. The game, which probably will attract a crowd of 45,000, may be reached by following route 23 to the Ohio State campus.

Denison at Delaware

Denison plays Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware in the closest game to Marion, while Muskingum and Ohio, both undefeated but each having a tie game against its record, meet at Athens. Cincinnati will be the scene of two games, Wittenberg vs Cincinnati and Western Reserve vs St. Xavier. Delaware may be reached by following route 23, while fans going to Athens should continue on route 23 to Columbus, from which point route 31 may be followed to Athens. Route 42 from Delaware is the best road to Cincinnati.

Heidelberg and Akron, both undefeated, meet in the day's classical contest at Akron, while Mt. Union plays host to Wooster at Alliance. Route 30 may be followed to Wooster for fans going to either game while those going to Akron should take route 36 from Wooster. Fans who are Alliance bound should continue from Wooster on route 30 to Canton from which city route 19 may be taken to their destination.

Oberlin and Miami meet at Oberlin in another of the day's principal games. Route 4 from Marion to route 20, and the latter road east will take the motorist to the scene of the game.

Daily Proverb—"Peace has her victories no less renowned than war."

Determination of the 1930 college football honors is yet almost two weeks away, and the same, unfortunately, may probably be said of college football rioting.

Utility valuations in the county have been increased by $40,290 to $14,977,200. Well, well! This is a surprise. For months now we have been told that all property values were falling.

During the first nine months of the present year the airplane output of American factories was 2,710. Let us hope that this does not mean a proportionate increase in the number of crashes.

While there is little probability of a new joke being sprung over the air, one of these days there may be a new adaptation of an old one offered with a consequent shock to the world listening in.

The province of Quebec realized a profit of $9,560,791 from the liquor business during the year ended June 30. A mighty small return for the stigma suffered by a great political division as a result of trafficing in liquor.

General Erich Ludendorff predicts another great European war in 1932 which will result in the annihilation of Germany and sound the death knell of German culture. If we remember correctly, this is the first pronouncement on the impending fate of "kultur" since the general started that beer hall revolution to restore the monarchy.

During the thirty days immediately preceding November 12, ninety-one persons were shot in New York. So extensive is the night club life there that it was probably considered a hopeless task to attempt to enumerate those half shot.

An Akron attorney, fined $10 and costs for failure to pay a dog license, threatens to appeal the matter and attack the constitutionality of the dog license law on the ground that the legislature went too far in adopting it, contending that if a dog tax is not paid, a penalty charge must not be exacted by means of arrest. If he can, establish his further contention that the dog doesn't belong to him and never did, he certainly should get relief, one way or the other.

$500,000 in Two Years.

According to County Surveyor Cecil B. Leavens, the state expended half a million dollars in highway construction, repairs and maintenance in Marion county during the last two years. Those who read the story in Thursday's Star carrying the statement will recall that it was set out that the greatest single project of the two-year program was the reconstruction of a four-mile section of the Harding highway to the east of the city at a cost of $108,000, and that the other outstanding construciton was that of bridges at an aggregate expenditure of $41,656.

This is not here set out for the purpose of criticizing the expenditure in any way, but solely to call the attention of readers to the immense cost of building and maintaining our highway systems. Those familiar with the state highway system in this county will, after a moment's thought, realize that the new highway construction set out, including that of bridges, is almost negligible compared with the total of the state system in the county, and yet the expenditure for it and the maintaining of the system for the two year period was approximately $500,000.

Although the reconstructed section of the Harding highway is wider than the older state roads, we can get some idea of the cost of the state highways by using its cost of approximately $27,000 a mile as a basis for figuring the aggregate, not alone here at home, but all over the state. Without going into figures, it will be recognized as stupendous.

Possibly our fine highways are worth to the people of the state all they cost, possibly they are worth more, far more, but that in no way serves to weaken the contention that the automobile as a vehicle alike of pleasure and of commerce has added immensely to the cost of living in highway construction and maintenance alone.

Yet this cost, staggering as it has been, and is, can not reasonably be used as a basis for complaint, for the very simple reason that the public, having enjoyed the hard highways, would not be willing to go back to the old gravel or concrete roads—not in a thousand years. So long as we knew nothing better we were satisfied with the old roads. Since the automobile has brought about the construction of the higher-class roads, we will never be content with roadways inferior to them.

And there is this to be said for state highways, as the surveyor has pointed out, through the gasoline and license plate taxes those who make use of them have to bear the burden of the cost of reconstructing and maintaining them.

India's Destiny.

Four score odd men meeting in conference in London during the coming weeks will attempt to balance India's scale of destiny. On their ability to interpret correctly and appraise correctly the manifold phases of this most difficult political problem depends not only India's future but the relations of many nations not directly connected. It is an enormous responsibility.

The American who attempts to consider India's problem in terms of the society with which he is most familiar can decide nothing. India is not a single nation composed of like-minded people who live on approximately the same cultural level. In the territory directly under British control live 225 to 600 people unlike in race, language and religion. Through out the many lines of distinction runs the heavy one of caste distinction an apparently impassable barrier in itself.

More than a third of India lies within the boundaries of the Indian states, which are under the suzerainty of the British crown, but are not British territory. These states are ruled over by proud princes, powerful in their own right, fastidious potentates to whom England's Labor government has to cater as if it had never won a battle to break down distinction of birth.

It is these millions living in all stages of civilization from the twentieth century back to the tenth century, that must be reconciled. The interests of the British empire must be protected and the demands of the Indian Nationalism answered; the desire of Indians to help rule themselves must be appeased while the best interests of the country are safeguarded, the Moslem and the Hindu must be persuaded to work together, the native prince must learn to look at things with the eyes of the Nationalist. All this must be accomplished among a people who's illiteracy is the rule, not the exception.

As the conference in London opens, Mahatma Gandhi continues to live in prison at Poona. He and his followers decided to boycott the conference in London, believing that their demands for Nationalism will not be answered. Perhaps the Mahatma anticipated the outcome correctly. Even if the Indian representatives should reach an agreement, there remains the question as to whether the three British political parties will be able to agree.

According to a New York City paper, the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad will in May cease to use wooden cars on its suburban trains entering the Grand Central station there. What excuse in this day can there be for the use of wooden cars for the transportation of passengers on any kind of trains anywhere?

The Air-Mindedness of America.

When newspaper correspondents in Colon asked Captain Roy W. Ammel on his arrival there after a record-breaking solo non-stop dash from New York City what was the object of his flight to the Panama canal, his answer was, "It has no object. I just wanted to come to Panama. I used to live here, you know."

It is becoming the rule, rather than the exception, that one finds on picking up his newspaper a story of the crashing of a plane, often with the accompaniment of loss of life or serious injury. The explanation is easy. The country is becoming air-minded to a degree not even so much as imagined ten years ago as possible of so speedy accomplishment. Hundreds are flying today where one flew a decade ago. And flights which a few years ago were considered marvelous are now looked upon as commonplace. Feats which were attempted only by experts ten years ago, are now being achieved by comparative beginners. Amateurs are now making distance flights without considering them particularly noteworthy, and boys and girls are flying from ocean to ocean. Experts are taking off on flights with little, if any, advance notice, which had they been proposed half a dozen years ago would have been given oceans of advance exploitation by the press of the land.

Take the case of Captain Ammel. He loads half a dozen sandwiches, a vacuum bottle of chicken broth, another of cold tomato juice and a third full of coffee, takes on a supply of gasoline and takes off in his Blue Streak from Floyd Bennett airport near New York City, one afternoon at 2:10 o'clock and lands on French field, Colon, at 2:45 o'clock the following afternoon, having covered an estimated distance of 2,189 miles at an average speed of ninety miles in twenty-four hours and thirty-five minutes. He did not make the flight for a prize or a purse or on a wager. He simply wanted to go to Panama because he once lived there and wanted to see the Canal strip again. Not only that, but he so little regarded the risk of the flight that he disregarded warnings of bad weather and storms which he encountered and rode out, landing in Panama in fine physical condition and with 110 gallons of gasoline in his machine's tank.

When aviators take off on 2,000 mile flights over land and sea merely for the sake of going somewhere we have evidence of the great advance in American air mindedness and the development of aviation as a method of transportation in this country.

An aged player in Warren became so enthusiastic over a fancy shot made by him on a miniature golf course that he dropped dead, which goes to show that it is not so much the violence of the game, but its thrill which carries menace.

Senator Carter Glass is all worked up over the pledge of cooperation made by the seven Democratic leaders recently, holding that it is utterly beyond his understanding why "anybody should feel impelled to apologize for an apparent Democratic victory." Tut, tut, Carter. Don't take the matter too seriously. The seven pledgers also had their fingers crossed when making the pledge.

[illegible] British house of commons of the Labor government would borrow money to finance local [illegible] to the relief of unemployment. Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden replied: "It is the policy of this government to make a loan and then to devise [illegible]." Perhaps [illegible] there may be such as to compel him so to be.

DRUMMING UP TRADE.

Editorial Opinion.

THE RECOGNITION OF BRAZIL.

The administration in Washington is setting a new pace for the recognition of revolutionary governments in South America. As soon as they give evidence of stability and of intention to carry out their international undertakings they are put on the diplomatic visiting list. There is none of the old-time hemming and hawing over the length of time that should be permitted to elapse before they could be acknowledged de jure for what de facto they had been all along. The new determining factor is not time but intentions.

The present government in Bolivia was recognized by Washington after it had been in power eleven weeks, a relatively long period, as subsequent events have moved. The Peruvian government had to wait only about three weeks, while the new regime in Argentina was formally accepted by the state department twelve days after it seized the reins of government. The recognition of the new government in Brazil took place fifteen days after the revolution demonstrated its success. One government has been recognized so soon after another that Washington correspondents have ceased including in their dispatches the old bromide about "unseemly haste."

As a matter of fact there is nothing unseemly in recognizing the undoubted choice of a neighboring people for its rulers, as quickly as the pertinent prerequisites to recognition can be established. These facts are obtainable today by cable and wireless. Adhering to formulas devised in a day when it took six weeks to get a dispatch across the Atlantic would set diplomacy back in the horse-and-buggy age. The advantages that accrue to the intercourse between nations from diplomatic recognition ought not to be withheld any longer than is necessary in order to make sure that the recognition is deserved.—Detroit Free Press.

Excursion into Ohio 120 Years Ago.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

More than 120 years ago James Kilbourne with his family and a number of other families of Granby, Connecticut, were on their way in wagons from their eastern homes to the new settlement that had been located in what is now Franklin county—Worthington. That movement was to inject an element of New England character and tradition into this community where immigrations up to that time had been largely from Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

It was the second trip for Colonel Kilbourne himself from Granby, Connecticut, to the site of his settlement here that year. Earlier in the year—he left Granby on April 7—he had accompanied several wagons of goods across the country, bearing necessary articles and a number of mechanics, Colonel Kilbourne himself, riding horseback. The party probably followed Zane's Trace laid out six years before, from Wheeling for it is said that when the wagoners reached the end of the wagon road at Lancaster, they sent two of their party to Worthington to notify Colonel Kilbourne of their predicament and ask aid in cutting a road through the settlement, the colonel having traveled faster and reached the place.

Kilbourne hurried to Lancaster and in a few days had the wagons at their destination. It is an indication of the tremendous energy of the head of the colony that by the middle of the summer he had the work of preparing the cabins for the colonists so far advanced that he could leave for Granby to bring his own and the other families out for their new home in the Ohio wilderness. He was back at Worthington again before November, and had everything in ship shape for winter before the snows came. The first family to arrive was that of H. Griswold and he established a tavern in his little cabin, and later opened a store in it in charge of a man named Stewart, who was also a distiller.

Time in Cancer Cure.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Years ago the word "cancer" brought horror and fear to everybody. Cancer seemed about the worst thing that one could have. Today this disease is still greatly dreaded, but it is handled more sanely and more successfully.

Many of our best doctors and research workers have devoted their entire lives to the study of this disease. Some have died in their efforts to solve the many problems met with in the cure of this disease. This is particularly true of the x-ray workers. As a result of much exposure to the rays, they suffered great burns and permanent bodily damage. These martyrs achieved much and their efforts were not in vain. Today, as a result of their work, we have much definite knowledge regarding this disease and how to control and apply the x-ray in safety.

I am often asked whether there is a cure for cancer. At present we know of no medicine, serum or inoculation that will cure cancer. Much valuable work is being done, but as yet no cure or claims of cure are not to be accepted in the light of present knowledge.

I am sorry to say this, but, unfortunately, the "cures" offered the public are a snare, and a delusion. Medical societies are endeavoring to place vendors of useless nostrums in the hands of proper authorities. This is well, because many useless and fraudulent remedies are often quite as dangerous as cancer. They give a false sense of security and their use permits precious time to be wasted. Time, as you will see, is a very important factor in the cure of this disease.

Aside from the proper use of the x-ray and radium in certain types, surgery is the only cure for cancer. Cancer that is recognized in its early stages and removed immediately by operation will lead to cure in almost 100 per cent. of cases.

Unfortunately most of us fear operations. It is because of this fear and consequent delay in being operated upon that there exists the present high mortality in cancer.

As soon as you suspect something is wrong, no matter what it is, consult your doctor. The chances are you have no cancer, but if you have, and he advises operation, have it done immediately. I know of many instances where a person has actually diagnosed his own trouble, knew he had cancer, but refused to consult a physician for fear an operation would be advised. This is terrible because such cases of cancer will never be cured of themselves or by medicine.

If we could only make everybody understand that surgery in the early stages of cancer is a simple procedure we could remove the terrifying and bitter effects of advanced cancer. Many finally submit to operation after having suffered untold misery, not only for themselves, but for their families. It is then often too late to operate.

Sudden swellings, tumors, sores, abrasions and ulcers are not always true cancer. Delay in treatment of what in the beginning is a harmless thing in ceases the changes of development of the disease at a later time. The cure of cancer depends on early recognition of the disease and early operation. If surgery is the cure and must be done, why delay? Surgery will only cure if applied in time.

An early small operation often saves the necessity of having a larger operation done later. The sooner you have proper treatment the less the seriousness of the operation, the less the expense, and the less the loss of time from your work. Take heed of all warnings that your body gives out. Above all things take advantage of all that modern science has to offer you. If you have a mole, any lump or sore and this has remained with you a few weeks go to your doctor at once. Find out the truth about it.—Copyright, 1930, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Future of Crime.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

No one who gives prolonged reflection to the problem of crime and legal treatment thereof can fail to be aware that our present codes are tainted with the spirit of revenge.

Organized society sets up a system of morals, a code of conduct for the guidance of the individuals constituting that society. The law makes hard the way of the transgressor. He must conform to the system, obey the code, or take the consequences. And the consequences may be as serious as the crime itself, murder will be visited by execution, legal kidnapping by legal kidnapping, theft of goods by legal theft of the person of the thief.

It is shocking in the highest degree to realize how lamentably slow we are in reforms in criminal codes and procedure have been. Less than a century and a half ago the death penalty was visited upon the luckless criminal for such slight offenses as the theft of five-shillings-worth of shop goods, the robbery of a rabbit-warren, and the counterfeiting of revenue perfumery stamps. These are only a few among scores of other slight offenses as we see things today, for which the death penalty was invoked.

It was Bacon who said that revenge was a sort of wild justice. It is possible that so-called justice, if administered with ruthless hand may appear to some as a sort of legalized revenge. In the future, says George Godwin in "Cain," we may find that by making the test of crime its effect, not only upon the community of today but also upon the race, certain things now criminal will cease to be so, while others not now crimes will become offenses.

Not many years ago, a certain school of criminologists, headed by the sensational Italian, Cesare Lombroso, advanced the theory that there were certain unmistakable stigmata or physical marks of the crime instinct. There was, it was urged, a specific criminal type.

Fortunately for human nature and the future of the race, this theory has now been exploded. It is no longer seriously entertained by criminologists generally. This does not mean, however, that there is not some association or connection between certain physical attributes and certain types of crime.

Lombroso and his followers in an exact sense, were taking a superficial view. They were regarding externals, the apparent, physical stigmata. The cause, of course, lies deeper than this, namely in the mental quirk, the moral twist, the abnormal functioning, under high stress of passion or temptation, of the ordinarily normal intelligence.

Legal punishment must, it is argued by many humanitarians, eliminate from its own nature the taint of retribution. Plato says that the criminal must be adequately punished for the sake of deterring others from doing wrong, but in this statement, Plato overlooks the individual criminal himself, upon whom the modern criminologist concentrates. The criminal must be punished, in order to deter him from repeating his crime or committing other crimes. Punishment, according to Barnes, can be justified if it brings about moral reformation, and in future he predicts it will be used only in those cases where it will be likely to have that effect.

If degeneracy is the disease of the race, says Godwin, crime is the disease of the social body. He predicts that, in the future, all idea of punishment will be abandoned. The prison will be only a house of detention, a place where each inmate will be studied with the sole view of possible mental and physical regeneration and moral betterment.

The leader in the future treatment of crime will not be the jailer, the turnkey, the warden, the hangman. He will be the physician, the alienist, the psychiatrist, the psychopathologist. The purpose of detention will be to diagnose and treat the ills to which the criminal is subject. Some will be treated and benefited; some will be cured and restored to society; others will receive other treatment, accomodated to the individual criminal, sterilization, special types of labor and what not. The incorrigibles, who will not yield to scientific treatment of any kind, will be painlessly eliminated, through the medium of the lethal chamber. This is the trend of modern opinion.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Visit to India.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

India is very much in the first page news just now, what, with Gandhi and his followers creating political dilemmas for the British to solve, and so a trip there would be very interesting. But we shall not concern ourselves with politics. Bombay is our destination, and a mighty interesting one it is.

Bombay is an island, one of a group of twelve. It is eleven and a half miles long and about six miles wide. The city has great commercial advantages, being the terminus in India of ships making the passage through the Suez canal. It is also one of the world's greatest cotton centers, being outstripped in this respect only by our own New Orleans. Kipling called it the "Queen City of India."

While I said we would not discuss politics no discussion of Bombay would be complete without mention of the Parsees, probably the most important single native influence in India. The Parsees completely dominate the commercial life of Bombay, have amassed great wealth, and their homes and clubs are marvels to behold. It is interesting to note that the Parsee merchants became enormously wealthy from their trades in cotton during the American civil war and the high prices they exacted. And the Parsees take care of their own when relief becomes necessary through setbacks and little or no poverty is to be found among them.

The visitor to Bombay should, by all means, go to Malabar hill, to see the "Towers of Silence," where the Parsee funerals are held. These "Towers of Silence"—there are five of them—stud the very summit of Malabar hill, which, by the way, is the most aristocratic section of Bombay. The largest is twenty-five feet high and about 275 feet in circumference, built of stone and cement. When there is a funeral the body is carried into the towers by four men called bearers. These are followed by two others, who wear beards, and are regarded as unclean because they touch dead bodies. It is these men who take the body from the casket and place it on the grating atop the towers.

It is interesting to note the difference in these towers, so far as their use is concerned. Three of them are reserved for the Parsee public, one other for criminals and suicides, while the fifth is used only by the descendants of Modi Hizi Wachha, who erected this particular tower in 1672. The Parsees learned this method of disposing of their dead from Zoroaster, who taught that in death the rich and the poor must meet.

The report to Governor Cooper is to be made not later than Dec. 17, and will be as full as possible, so that he may prepare recommendations for new tax laws to the next legislature, which convenes the first Monday in January, before he retires from office, January 12.

ARMY RULES HAVANA TO PREVENT UPRISING

Rigid Censorship Placed on Newspapers; Minor Clashes Take Place.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 14 — The mailed fist of the Cuban military was poised today above Havana and its environs, prepared to strike hard in defense of the administration of Gerardo Machado, threatened with a growing island-wide unrest.

Armed troops patrolled the city's streets, with mounted details here and there. Student assemblies were forbidden and householders remained in their homes.

A rigid censorship was imposed by the government, and two local newspapers, El Pais and Diario De La Marina, suspended publication rather than submit to governmental supervision.

Desultory minor rioting by unorganized bands of students lasted into the night, with one student reported dead and a small number wounded in clashes with troops. Two others were killed and a number wounded in clashes yesterday.

BUS COMPANY ASKS ROUTE TO COLUMBUS

Application for Extension Made as Railroad Seeks To Cut Train.

Possibility that the Pennsylvania railroad passenger service between Columbus and Sandusky by way of Marion and Bucyrus will be discontinued had apparently led the Lima-Marion Transit Co. of Kenton to seek to extend its routes.

Application to extend its service from Marion to Bucyrus, a part of the route covered by the Pennsylvania passenger cars, was filed with the utilities commission today by the Lima-Marion Transit Co.

The application is an apparent effort to obtain precedence over other passenger transportation lines which might make an effort to obtain routes serving cities now served by the Pennsylvania railroad.

The utilities commission yesterday took under advisement the application of the Pennsylvania railroad to discontinue its passenger service between Columbus and Sandusky. In its arguments, the company claimed the passenger line was operating at a loss of 12 cents a mile.

C. E. KUNKLE VICTIM OF FATAL ACCIDENT

Members of Family Identify Body Found Along Railroad Tracks.

The man found dead yesterday morning near Five Points east of Marion, was Charles Emmett Kunkle. The initials found in his notebook were K. E. and were probably those of his son, Kermit, according to his family. Mr. Kunkle was 47 years old.

Mr. Kunkle's body was found lying near the railroad tracks. He had been dead seven or eight hours.

Relatives said this morning that he was returning home from Galion, where he had been selling household articles. They believe that he had ridden in an automobile as far as the Kirkpatrick road and had started to walk home from there when a train is believed to have hit him and threw him 100 feet down the tracks. What train struck the man is not known as both Big Four and Erie trains run over these tracks.

Surviving with his widow, Mary McCamon Kunkle, are the following children: Victor Kunkle who is in the army in Panama, Kermit, Richard James, Forest Junior, Billy and Mary Kathryn at home. His father, Jacob A. Kunkle, lives at 305 Chestnut street.

His brothers and sisters include Paul Kunkle and Louis Kunkle of Chestnut street, Mrs. Grove of Cleveland and Mrs. Catherine Reid of Akron.

The body will be removed from the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary on East Center street, Saturday at 8:30 a. m. to the home of the father, where it will remain until Monday at 8:30 a. m. At that time it will be returned to the funeral home for services at 10:30 a. m. Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, will be in charge. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

TO LEAVE SUNDAY FOR KANSAS CITY

Forty-Three Marion County Boys To Attend Convention with Band.

(Marion time). Monday night the boys will also give a concert for the National Vocational Agriculture Public Speaking contest. Tuesday night the band will play at the America Royal Stock show, second largest stock show in the country, and will parade in the arena with more than 5,000 other Future Farmers of America. Wednesday night, the final session of the convention, the boys will attend the F. F. A. banquet and will play a farewell concert.

The train leaves union station Sunday at 11:27, and the boys will return Thursday at 11:43 p. m.

One On Third Trip

This will mark Hershel Hecker's third trip to national conventions in Kansas City. The Prospect boy went in '27 on a stock judging team and in '29 as a candidate for the American Farmer degree. John Sites of Prospect has a state farmers' degree and Ralph Bender of Waldo, former state F. F. A. president an da state farmer degree boy, is a candidate for the American Farmer degree this year. Robert Millisor of LaRue was the state public speaking contest winner last year and won second place in the regional state contest at Springfield, Mass., last September.

The band was organized in March of this year, with 15 pieces. This small group played at a county F. F. A. meeting shortly after its organization and Dr. Ray Fife of Columbus, state supervisor of vocational agriculture, extended the band an invitation to play at a state F. F. A. meeting in Columbus. When they played for this meeting there were 25 pieces.

In June Dr. Lane of Washington, D. C., chief vocational agricultural education in the United States was so impressed with reports of the band that he immediately began steps to take the band to Kansas City in November.

Kaelber, the director, is a short course student of vocational agriculture and is directing the band without remuneration. He graduated from the Waldo school.

Two of the numbers in the band's extensive repertoire are the National F. F. A. song, to the tune of "On Wisconsin" and the "Future Farmers March," composed by the director of the United States Marine band.

Several of the parents are accompanying the band. It was hoped to send the boys to the convention in a special car, but 30 additional parents or stock showmen could not be found to go along. In the party, in addition to the six teachers from the county, the parents, three delegates from the state to the convention, and Mr. Fife, will be Ralph A. Howard of Columbus, assistant state supervisor of vocational agriculture and Earl Reed of Columbus, divisional agriculture agent for the New York Central railroad and in charge of transportation, hotel accomodations, etc., for the trip.

Harold Charles Hodson Jr., 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hodson of LaRue, and mascot of the band, wears the regulation uniform, which consists of white trousers, royal blue sweater, royal blue cape lined with gold and lettered with "F. F. A." on the turned back corners, and a blue cap with a gold band and pompons.

Bill Bradley of the Pleasant school, carries hte F. F. A. banner. Compton's uniform is all white, with a tall white drum major's hat, and silver baton.

Every Tuesday night they have rehearsed an hour and a half, and every Sunday afternoon for two and a half hours. Rehearsals were held in the Pleasant school.

MOUSER CAMPAIGN ACCOUNT IS FILED

Congressman Spends $1,326 in Successful Race for Reelection.

Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr. received personal campaign contributions totaling $1,300 and his expenses amounted to $1,326.22 during his successful race for reelection, according to his expense account filed today with Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown.

In addition to his personal account Mouser listed $1.165 as the expenses of the Mouser-for-Congress club, the money having been raised by friends over the entire district.

The $1,300 personal receipts were from the Republican national committee and from C. F. Michael of Bucyrus, manufacturer. The committee gave $1,000 and Michael donated $300.

Robert L. Ruhe of Tiffin one of the winning candidates for state senator from the combined thirteenth and thirty-first districts of which Marion is a part received $206 and spent $764.

The expense account of Carl W. Smith of Kenton, unsuccessful candidate for congress, has not yet been filed with Brown.

6,000 Local Hunters Ready for Rabbit War

MARION county hunters will take to the fields and woods Saturday in greater numbers than ever before if the number of licenses issued is any indication.

A total of 6000 licenses probably will be sold before the season gets under way, according to B. F. Waples clerk of Marion township, whose sales today totaled 2,6.5. Every township clerk in the county as well as Clerk of Courts Everett B. Grigsby and local hardware stores are issuing the permits. The 6,000 figure is 1,000 higher than last year, Waples said.

WHILE Marion county hunters were cleaning their guns, thousands of other Ohioans were making similar preparations for the opening of the hunting season.

Rabbits will be the principal game sought by the nimrods. The season extends from Saturday until New Year's day and a hunter may bag as high as five bunnies daily.

The season for killing possum, raccoon and skunk is open until Feb. 1. The fox season closes Jan. 1, while muskrat and mink may be killed until March 1. The open season for ring-neck pheasant and Hungarian partridge lasts until Nov. 25.

Though old aches and pains may or may not hang on, every day new ones arrive.

platform and fired a single shot from a distance of six feet. Without a sound the premier clapped his hand to the wound and fell to the platform.

Police Grill Captive

Police pounced upon Sagoya and he was immediately subjected to a grilling. Officers remained silent as to the outcome of the questioning. Sagoya was said to be a member of the Ankokukai or "Love of Country association."

Hamaguchi was carried to the station master's office while his wife and members of the cabinet were summoned to the scene. The premier remained there for more than three hours during which time he was given a blood transfusion. His son, Iwane, furnished the blood.

Cabinet Convenes

Later the cabinet convened at the premier's official residence. Foreign Minister Baron Shidehara presided, to discuss measures for carrying on during Hamaguchi's incapacitation. The political situation seemed little affected.

Hamaguchi was born 60 years ago, the son of a petty yeoman family, in Tosa, the hotbed of early liberalism in Japan. He became premier on July 2, 1929.

Get Pictures of Attempted Assassination of Cabinet Leader.

By United Press

TOKYO, Nov. 14 The shooting of Premier Hamaguchi was caught by newspaper photographers who were preparing to snap pictures of the cabinet leader when he was fired upon at the railway station.

The photographs of the assassins attempt on the premier's life were printed in newspapers circulated on the streets an hour after the attack.

Endurance Driver Finds Rabbits Plentiful Here

Marion county hunters need not fear a shortage of game when they take the field Saturday. Ted Richardson, endurance driver, reported today, after he had passed the thirty-eighth hour of his attempt to drive an automobile 120 hours without stopping. Dozens of rabbits ran across the road in his path last night, all within a few miles of Marion, he reported.

Richardson had driven his car 394 miles last night. The drive is scheduled to end Monday at 8 p. m.
